

Now This Is a Fish!

If this doesn't get your Memorial Day weekend fishing fever up, nothing will. You're looking at a 63-pound flathead catfish, caught by Steve Eck, 3210 South Kentucky, after leaving his limb line in the Lamine River for three days. The fish is 3 feet 8 inches long, its mouth is 10 inches wide and the eyes are seven inches apart. Steve said he caught the giant fish at 6:30 Friday morning, along with several other catfish — relative "midgets" weighing only a few pounds apiece. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

Unearthed Bodies to 20

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Eight more bodies have been dug up in fruit orchards near here, bringing to 20 the number found along the Feather River, law enforcement officials said.

"It seems there's no end to them," a weary deputy sheriff said as the toll mounted Thursday.

Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker said three more bodies were found Thursday afternoon for a total of 15.

Later, a Yuba City policeman and a deputy said the total rose to 20 as night fell. "Somewhere around here we've got one hell of a crime scene," the policeman said.

Both asked that they not be identified as Whiteaker directed that others not comment on the case. The sheriff refused comment on whether the additional five bodies had been found.

Whiteaker had said the first 15 bodies were of transient farm workers or drifters ranging in age from 40 to 63. All had been hacked and slashed to death on the back of the head by a machete or similar weapon.

There were no descriptions of the latest five bodies.

Isolated in a Yuba City jail and charged Wednesday with 10 of the murders was Juan V. Corona, 37, of Yuba City, who spent three months in a state mental hospital in 1956.

There still was no apparent motive for the macabre slayings.

The three bodies reported by Whiteaker were in crude, shallow graves in peach and plum orchards. "I have no idea" how long the search will continue, the sheriff said.

Officers worked in cool rain Thursday, using a tractor-driven trench digger, then shovels to find three bodies.

Suspected graves have been discovered during general searches by lawmen and farmers in a mile-square area along the Feather River five miles north of Yuba City. Whiteaker described them as "indentations" in the soil.

He declined to say whether officers had probed any suspected sites and found them empty.

"We do believe there are some more areas that need to be checked out and searched," said the sheriff, who refused to discuss any aspect of Corona's involvement other than to say "we're certain he committed the murders."

Corona, a native of Mexico, has operated a farm labor contracting service off and on for 15 years in Yuba City, collecting crews for ranchers at harvest time. With his wife and four daughters, aged 4 through 8, he lived in a three-year-old, $22,000 tract home.

His wife Gloria described him as a good husband and father who couldn't kill anyone.

"I love him and always will want him back home. He...couldn't have done anything like this," she said.

Sutter County Superior Court records disclosed that Corona, then 22, was committed to Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, about 50 miles to the southeast, on Jan. 16, 1956, at the request of his brother, Natividad, and two doctors who gave a tentative diagnosis of schizophrenia.

Corona was released as "recovered" three months and two days later.

Laird Warns Allies Of Cutback Threat

BRUSSELS (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird warned the European allies today that a proposal by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield to cut U.S. forces in Europe could come up again twice in the near future.

He said this could be on the occasion of budget discussions in Congress, according to an official who attended the closed-door session.

U.S. officials said Laird also reported to defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization on the strategy of "realistic deterrence," especially as it applies to them.

The report was made in view of recent progress in the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks—SALT—with the Soviet Union and their response to Western offers to negotiate on force reductions in Europe.

The official said that Laird emphasized the need for all members to maintain their strength if they are to have a chance for successful talks with Moscow.

These will only be possible, he added, if the West keeps a strong deterrent through partnership and strength.

One American official defined "realistic deterrence" this way:

"In the face of the strategy, manpower, fiscal and political realities we face in the 1970's, the strategy of realistic deterrence by stressing greater contribution on the part of our friends and allies, seeks to establish a free world structure that can deter war and set the stage for meaningful negotiations.

Laird said on arriving Thursday for the one-day meeting that some of America's European allies are falling behind in their defense commitments.

Lord Carrington, the British defense minister, agreed but said Britain was not one of the countries failing to meet defense promises. He declined to name those that were.

All but France of the 15 NATO member nations were represented at today's semi-annual meeting.

The West German response to Laird's appeal was expected to be cool, at least for any direct German participation. But Defense Minister Helmut Schmidt was reported convinced that the European allies must explore the possibilities of greater cooperation in view of increasing demands in the United States for withdrawal of American troops from Europe.

Ten of the European ministers held a preliminary meeting Thursday, and Schmidt reportedly urged a new bid for full French participation in NATO's military alliance.

The late President Charles de Gaulle withdrew French troops from the unified command. But Schmidt suggested President Georges Pompidou may have a different outlook, particularly in the light of the recent U.S. Senate debate on cutting American troop strength in Europe and the possibility of talks with the Soviet Union on reduction of forces.

Carrington presided over the three-hour meeting of the Eurogroup. He told newsmen the Europeans are planning to do more to meet their commitments, not just because of the Americans but because they think they should. He said they would continue their European Defense Improvement Program—EDIP.

Under EDIP, the 10 European allies are to spend an additional billion dollars on defense over five years. But this is not likely to remove much if any of America's present share of the European defense burden. Most of the money will be spent on aircraft shelters.

Exile of Bosses Creates Protest

FILICUDI, Sicily (AP) — Two hundred police in battle gear landed on the rebellious island of Filicudi today to enforce the exile of 18 reputed Mafia bosses. The residents promptly announced they would abandon the island in protest.

Unshaven and red-eyed after three sleepless nights, islanders watched impassively as the police disembarked at the main port after coming from Sicily.

Then their agitation committee issued a communique saying the inhabitants were "constrained by events" to leave the island if the underworld exiles remained. They made preparations to leave.

The 200 or so residents of this fishing island charge that the exile of Mafia suspects here will spoil tourism.

The police came after the Mafia chiefs and their police escort spent their second back-breaking night on chairs, tables and the floor of a lonely seaside cafe and a requisitioned hotel under construction.

The police landing was hampered by the refusal of local fishermen to help in the operation.

The fishermen responded to an appeal to help in transporting the policemen from their launch to the shore by defiantly setting off to sea.

After the police landed, the residents caucused hurriedly. They rejected a proposal to strengthen barricades blocking the road into the village, and another to launch a guerrilla operation against the unwanted invaders—the police and the Mafia bosses.

Calling for "good sense" and nonviolence, the Filicudians' committee said it hoped authorities would change their minds and "recognize the just reasons of our people" in asking that the Mafiosi be sent elsewhere.

The Italian government decided to move known Mafia leaders to isolated islands—where they could be kept under constant surveillance—after the killing of the public prosecutor in Palermo, the Sicilian capital. Seventeen members of one gang were taken to Lino, south of Sicily; the islanders grumbled but put up no active resistance.

Not so the Filicudians. They waited up Tuesday night, and when the Mafiosi were landed Wednesday, the locals scuffled with the police.

Committee Blasts Government Rulings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government decisions on the safety of food and drugs are too often based on politics rather than good science, a blue-ribbon advisory committee reports.

The Food and Drug Administration, hailing the report as sound and helpful, said it is already implementing committee recommendations for scientific buffers against economic and political pressures.

The five-man panel of university scientists concluded after a year's investigation that despite pockets of laboratory excellence the FDA is not equipped to grapple with many of the difficult, technical questions of consumer protection.

"It currently faces enormous responsibilities for consumer protection and the public health but with limited resources, constricted perspective and little solid constituency in the public or medical and scientific establishments," the committee said of the FDA.

"There is no doubt that the agency is currently burdened with managerial and communication problems which are longstanding and widespread," the 56-page, cautiously worded report said.

Dr. Charles C. Edwards, the FDA chief, directed the committee to take a no-holds-barred look at his agency's scientific efforts under the chairmanship of Dr. Roy E. Ritts, of the University of Minnesota.

The panel said it found unproductive scientists in ill-equipped laboratories; stagnant middle-level scientific supervisors; absence of long-range planning and direction for research; "serious deficiencies" in outside research contracts; and a "curious aura of secrecy" among FDA scientists who suffer generally from poor morale.

The committee's only specific allegation of political interference in FDA decision making was the on-again, off-again enforcement of a ban on the artificial sweetener, cyclamate.

The cyclamate case, the panel said, is "an illustration of a forced and hurried judgment with inadequate, premature or unconfirmed scientific input admixed with political and industry pressures."

The report said the government's failure to monitor rigorously for harmful drug residues in meat and poultry may pose "possible danger to the public."

In addition, the committee said, the 17 FDA district laboratories do little more than spot check for unsafe foods and drugs because of immense work loads.

The Chicago and Philadelphia laboratories were described as "antiquated, crowded and unsafe."

Offices Closing For Memorial Day

Mayor Jerry Jones said Thursday that all city offices, excluding the police and fire departments will be closed in observance of Memorial Day Monday.

Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, county clerk, said Pettis County offices would also be closed except those providing emergency services.

State and federal offices will also be closed in observance of the holiday.

Manufacturers Plan County Organization

Plans were presented Thursday night for the formation of a Manufacturers Association of Pettis County, according to Bill Hall, Sedalia Industrial Development Director.

The meeting, held at the Holiday Inn here, was attended by representatives from various Sedalia industries.

Presiding at the meeting was Jim Lewis, representing Klasic Manufacturing Co., named chairman of the steering committee to propose a constitution and by-laws for the organization. Hall said the constitution and by-laws that were proposed were adopted at last night's meeting.

The next meeting of the Association for interested industries in Pettis County is slated for June 24. The time and place for the meeting will be designated by the chairman of the steering committee.

"All those in attendance at the Thursday night meeting agreed that an association of manufacturers was an important step in cooperation and understanding of industrial problems," Hall said.

"At the next meeting of the association, member companies will have an opportunity to become charter members of the association, and also at that time officers and directors will be elected," Hall stated.

Further information concerning the purposes and goals of the manufacturers association will be related at the annual industrial appreciation banquet to be held June 10 at Holiday Inn, according to Hall.

School Board Firm in Denial of HEW Charge

(Democrat-Capitol Service)

KANSAS CITY — Sedalia School District 200, through its attorney William F. Brown, stood firm against charges by the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, that the district was in violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, in a five and one-half hour administrative hearing here Thursday.

Claiming that recent supreme Court rulings were working at cross purposes in solving desegregation problems, Brown said in the closing statement for the school district, that the government had accused the district of operating a dual school system, but had not explained exactly what a dual system was.

He added that the Supreme Court had acknowledged in a recent decision that many problems accompanying desegregation could not be adequately solved, noting a racial imbalance occurring in certain schools could not be considered desegregation if discrimination was not employed to either reach or sustain such imbalance.

HEW's hearing examiner, Thomas J. Pope, San Francisco, allowed both HEW and the school district until July 6 to file written briefs consisting of facts pertaining to the case as well as laws pertaining to the issues involved.

Pope added that copies of the transcript of Thursday's proceedings would be mailed to HEW and the school district in about two weeks.

He said that he would present a review of the hearing, deciding whether the school district was or was not in compliance with Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, hopefully within 30 days from the time he receives briefs from both parties.

Counsel for HEW, Christopher Hagen, suggested to the hearing examiner that the deferral period for a freeze on funds for future educational aid programs, due to expire Saturday, should be extended, until a review of hearing proceedings is completed.

In his closing statement, Hagen reiterated HEW's charge that Hubbard was being operated as a school for Negroes, and that since all federal funds granted to the Sedalia school district were apportioned in part to Hubbard, such funds were "tainted and infected" and should be discontinued.

Hagen added that the operation of Hubbard as a Negro school "flies in the face of Supreme Court precedent," citing two cases in an attempt to back his contention.

Five persons testified in the proceedings, including Sedalia Superintendent of Schools Dr. T. J. Norris, who indicated that beginning next school year Negro teachers would be assigned to elementary schools throughout the school district, breaking a school board policy of assigning teachers to the school of their choice whenever possible. Dr. Norris also testified that the school board had actively sought more Negro teachers for the system for the past five years, but added that only two had decided to work for the school district, despite "concerted efforts" by the district to retain them.

Morning testimony was heard from two long-time Sedalia residents, Clyde Robinson, 123 West Cooper, and Oscar Lawson, 631 North Osage, who related their experiences as students and parents in the Sedalia school district, claiming little or no opportunity to attend school anywhere other than "north of the tracks" had ever been granted by the school board. Brown objected to the bulk of this testimony, charging it was irrelevant and immaterial to HEW's charges of failure to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The first witness of the afternoon session, Leonard Hamilton, Shaker Heights, Ohio, a civil rights specialist for the Office of Civil Rights, HEW, revealed in testimony that an Oct. 1, 1970, investigation of the school system by a three-member team concluded that Hubbard Elementary School was being operated as a school for Negroes.

Much of Hamilton's testimony dealt with the makeup of the Sedalia elementary schools, with Mark Twain, Hubbard and Jefferson schools being included in a "freedom of choice" zone while Heber Hunt, Horace Mann, Washington and Whittier schools each possessed definite geographic boundaries, allowing that children living within the boundaries of the second group of schools were required to attend the school in whose boundary they resided.

Upon examination of the racial composition of the schools, (See SCHOOL, Page 4)

Charismatic Movement Is Reviving Churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — In calmly precise, matter-of-fact manner, he stood at the rostrum fielding questions from a roomful of critics about one of the strangest, fastest spreading phenomena in the religious world today.

Someone asked if it could be dangerous.

"It can be if it turns a person inward on himself rather than outward in love," said the Rev. Kenneth L. Pagard of Chula Vista, Calif. "It's like electricity. It's dangerous stuff, but if rightly used, it's a great power for good."

What, another asked, is its main purpose?

"It is primarily a gift of power for the ministry. It is to bring men and women face to face with the reality of the living God."

The Rev. Mr. Pagard, 38, coordinator of the American Baptist Charismatic Fellowship, was talking about an unusual spiritual activity now surging within most denominations, Protestant and Roman Catholic.

Called the charismatic movement, its participants report an infusion of the Holy Spirit that empowers their faith with confidence, assurance of God's presence, more vital prayer, frequent healings, greater concern for others and which ordinarily manifests itself through glossolalia, speech in unknown tongues.

"God is doing a big thing today," the Rev. Mr. Pagard said in an interview. "It's going to have a real impact in renewing the churches."

The movement cuts across denominational lines, often involving ecumenical groups on campuses and in local communities, as well as many individual parishes and pastors, Lutheran, Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian and other mainline churches, which once shunned it as an emotional characteristic of smaller Pentecostal groups.

The tongues-speaking is "only one part of the package and a minor part," said the Rev. Mr. Pagard, pastor of the Chula Vista's First Baptist church where the "gift of the Spirit" has led many families to open their homes to others, in the communal pattern of original Christianity.

"In our church, we hardly ever mention tongues-speaking," he said. "It's commonly accepted, but it's primarily for use in private devotions. It's direct spiritual communication, from our spirit to God."

However, the "tongues" aspect has drawn a disproportionate amount of public attention because of "vague fears" of the odd and unfamiliar, he said under questioning at sessions of the recent American Baptist Convention here.

"People today are afraid of anything supernatural," he said.

But, someone asked, didn't St. Paul warn against it in First Corinthians 14?

"Indeed, he did warn against its abuse," the Rev. Mr. Pagard said. "He saw that some were overdoing it 'in church'—that's the qualifying word."

"But in the same passage, he also said he wanted all believers to speak in tongues in their devotions, and said he was thankful that he did so more than any of them. Modern Christians wear 'blinders' against those points."

The Rev. Mr. Pagard said the "Spirit" experience was a "normal part of Christian life" from the beginning—and not an exceptional thing.

"It is intended for all Christians as a normal condition," he said. "But the church today is in an abnormal condition. The main thing wrong is that it lacks the real presence of the Holy Spirit operating in power."

The original manifestation of it, as described in Acts 2, came with the outpouring of the Spirit at Pentecost, imbuing the apostles with courage and persuasiveness.

Someone asked if it wasn't mainly a personal emotional process?

"On the contrary, there's nothing ecstatic about it. You aren't zapped out into the blue, up on a cloud somewhere. It's so natural people miss it. When it first happened to me, I didn't roll on the floor or jump up and down. It's not for thrilling oneself, but for the power of a ministry of love."

How do you get it?

"It's not a mechanical step. It's a combination both of God's working and man's response to it. In simple terms, one opens his heart to the Lord, asking to receive His Spirit, and the Spirit comes in and takes over."

Confirmed As Members

After a three-year term of instruction in the Christian faith, these nine teenagers were confirmed last Sunday at Christ Lutheran Church. Seen with their pastor, the Rev. Fred A. Hueners (third in the front row), are from

Rev. Albright Will Address UCC Conference

The Rev. Marvin Albright, pastor of United Church of Christ, Fourth and Vermont, will be one of the speakers at the annual meeting of the Missouri Conference of the United Church of Christ, at Westminster College, Fulton, beginning next Friday. He will discuss world peace at the Saturday morning session.

The Friday evening session will feature a report on a survey of opinion recently conducted in local congregations by the commission on local church ministries. More than a hundred congregations used approximately 21,000 questionnaires to register their feelings about such questions as church activity in public issues.

Dr. David Stowe, executive vice-president for World Ministries, New York, will speak at the Saturday evening session.

The proposal to unite nine major denominations in the Consultation on Church Union will be debated Saturday

At Jesus Festival

Keith Creighton, a Kansas City folk singer, was one of several performers who participated in Sedalia's first Jesus Festival Saturday at Convention Hall. More than 150 persons attended. Mrs. Phil Newell, 701 East Fifth, directed a 30-member choir which sang a medley of popular hit songs. Harold Aday, Kansas City, addressed the gathering. The Rev. Leroy Hayes, president of Beacon in the Night which sponsored the festival, said that a similar festival will be held sometime in June. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

Nurse Headquarters Move to Kansas City

NEW YORK (AP) — Headquarters of the American Nurses Association will be moved from New York to Kansas City in September, 1972.

Directors of the ANA voted Thursday to relocate in Crown Center, a privately-financed redevelopment project near downtown Kansas City.

The National Student Nurses Association and the American Journal of Nursing Co., a publishing firm owned by ANA, will remain in New York.

Successful Flight For Gigantic Kite

LOGAN, Kan. (AP) — Logan's second giant kite has made a successful flight.

The first one, measuring 18 by 27 feet and weighing 300 pounds, crashed from an altitude of 300 feet after its cable broke Wednesday night. It was made of electrical conduit, angle iron and canvas.

Undaunted, young people of Logan pitched in Thursday and built one measuring 25 by 17½ feet, weighing 20 pounds. It was made of bamboo, plastic sheets and binder twine. The kite pulled about one-third of a mile of twine into the air on its first flight Thursday night.

Max Donahey built the first kite for the Logan centennial. He was inspired by accounts that Logan residents in 1890 built a kite they proclaimed was the largest in the world at the time.

The body is at the Alexander Funeral Home here.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

South Pushes Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — With a major assist from allied aircraft, South Vietnamese forces battled North Vietnamese troops for the third day today for the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Snuol. Fighting also raged in South Vietnam's central highlands and around the A Shau valley near the Laotian border.

South Vietnamese officials claimed more than 400 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed in the fighting Thursday and today, many by air and artillery strikes. But Saigon headquarters conceded part of the claim was based on reports from aerial observers, which frequently are inflated.

Incomplete casualty reports said at least 12 South Vietnamese were killed and 52 were wounded.

U.S. B52 bombers and helicopter gunships and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers took part in the battle for Snuol, 90 miles north of Saigon, and South Vietnamese spokesman claimed 219 enemy soldiers were killed in the fighting today, more than half of them by air strikes. Saigon casualties were listed as eight killed and 18 wounded.

In South Vietnam's central highlands, 150 miles northeast of Snuol, about 400 North Vietnamese attacked a South Vietnamese battalion headquarters about 35 miles south of Pleiku City. South Vietnamese officers claimed 128 North Vietnamese were killed but said they captured no weapons from the bodies.

South Vietnamese losses in the ground attack and a shelling attack on another government position to the south were reported as four killed and 28 wounded.

Another 56 enemy troops were reported killed in the northern sector of South Vietnam and around the A Shau Valley. Five South Vietnamese were reported as wounded.

Ground fighting raged only 50 yards west of Snuol, but the Saigon command said the town was under control of South Vietnamese troops. "There are no more enemy in the town now," said a spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien.

Houstonia Group Holds Meeting

HOUSTONIA — The Community Betterment club this week discussed the need of a trailer park for incoming workers connected with the ABM installation near here.

The club announced its breakfast had been scheduled for June 3, with a tractor pull slated for Aug. 14.

It was reported that Houstonia was slated to receive a free air marker. Also brought to the attention of the club was the fact that all street signs have now been put in place.

Reuniting Class Members of 1911

Members of the Class of 1911 of the Sedalia High School will gather for a noon luncheon at LeRoy's Steakhouse Saturday. Organized by Norman Stevens and Chris Egdorf, the reunion is expected to draw nearly 20 of the original 70 members of the class.

Class members from Oklahoma, Colorado, Indiana and Kansas have indicated they plan to attend.

Hold Poppy Day

SWEET SPRINGS — The Veterans of Foreign Wars will hold their annual Poppy Day in Sweet Springs Saturday according to Mrs. Mildred Dierking, chairman.

The American Legion will meet at 6 p.m. Friday to place crosses and flags on the graves at Fairview Cemetery in Sweet Springs.

Benefit Increase Is Noted

The social security checks which will be mailed June 3 to 679,700 Missourians will be higher than the monthly amounts delivered in the past, according to C. Kent Charles, social security district manager.

Charles said the checks covering benefit payments for the month of May will include the general 10 per cent increase in benefits signed into law by President Nixon March 17.

The increase raises the monthly benefit rate of social security payments in Missouri by nearly $6,643.200 — to a total of about $73,000,000. Nationally, the new monthly benefit rate totals $2.9 billion, paid to 26.2 million beneficiaries.

The 10 per cent increase will be made for all recipients except special monthly payments made to certain individuals age 72 and over who are not insured for regular social security cash benefits. These people will receive a five per cent increase, Charles said.

Sedalian To Attend Conference

Major Marjorie Weber of The Salvation Army headquarters in Sedalia will attend the second White House Conference on Aging at Washington, D.C., Nov. 28 to Dec. 3 as the official representative of the six counties in the Show-Me and Missouri Valley regions. She will be one of 44 official delegates from Missouri.

Major Weber was elected to represent Pettis, Johnson, Lafayette, Saline, Carroll and Chariton counties at the national conference by the more than 100 delegates to the six-county regional conference on aging held in Sedalia recently.

Major Weber was also an elected representative of the region at the state conference on aging held in Jefferson City early this week.

She said that about 4,000 persons are expected to attend the Washington, D.C., conference, nearly 1,700 of whom will be elected representatives from counties and regions. She said she will be a participant in a panel discussion on retirement roles and activities, a subject she discussed at the state conference.

Major Weber has been with the Salvation Army headquarters here since 1958, with brief assignments in other states during the past 13 years. She has been a delegate to two national gatherings before — the National Urban League conference in New Orleans and the National Sunday School conference at St. Louis.

Emergency Vehicle Measure Is Passed

JEFFERSON CITY — A bill granting emergency vehicle rights to volunteer firemen driving private vehicles with flashing lights responding to a fire call was passed by the Senate Thursday. Sen. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, sponsored the measure.

The bill was returned to the House where it originated under the initial sponsorship of Rep. Bill J. Crigler, D-Fayette, with minor Senate amendments.

Skelton indicated the measure would be of great help in rural areas where volunteers compose the bulk of the fire fighting force.

Hospital's Board In Special Session

SWEET SPRINGS — The Sweet Springs Community Hospital Board held a special meeting Thursday night to discuss pay increases to employees.

F. C. Dohrman resigned as vice president of the board to serve as administrator of the hospital. Bill Johnson, member of the board, was appointed to serve in Dohrman's place.

Accidents

Five-year-old Billy Joe Hineman, 615 East 13th, was treated at Bothwell Hospital for minor injuries Thursday after he was struck by a car in an alley in the 1200 block of South Ingram. Hospital authorities said he was treated for a bump on the head and back abrasions and released.

According to police, the youth ran from behind a storage shed into the path of a westbound 1971 Ford driven by Karlin D. Kirkbride, 25, Boonville.

Police Report

Police arrested Charles A. Retherford, 36, Route 2, at 10:30 p.m. Thursday in the vicinity of Howard and Saline streets.

He was held overnight at city jail and held for investigation of prowling.

The arrest report said that Retherford had allegedly been prowling, trespassing and loitering by houses.

Tom Burlingame reported the theft of a hot water heater and flush box and stool, valued at $100, within the last three days. The items were taken from a house he is tearing down at 816 East Seventh.

Phillip Allen, manager of the Crowley Fence Co., Highway 65 and Grand, reported to police at 804 a.m. Thursday that someone took several galvanized bars, valued at $40, from an open storage area sometime Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Gordon Wolf, 1208 South Murray, reported to police Thursday afternoon that someone took her daughter's ball glove, valued at $7, from a closet in the Seventh grade classroom at Washington School sometime Wednesday morning.

Magistrate Court

George W. Kueck, 77, Cole Camp, was bound over to Circuit Court after waiving his preliminary hearing Thursday on charges of writing an insufficient funds check. He is presently free on $1,000 bond.

A charge of stealing property valued in excess of $50 was filed in Pettis County Magistrate Court Friday against Larry E.

sition of the schools in the "freedom of choice" area, and a comparison of the facilities of the physical plants of each of the three schools, Hamilton testified that the investigating committee informed Dr. Norris of their conclusion that Hubbard was being administered as a school for Negroes.

Hamilton also testified that he told Norris on the Oct. 1 date several alternatives to solving the alleged segregation problem could be followed by the board to avoid a hearing such as Thursday's or the possibility of a freeze on federal funds for future educational aid programs.

Considerable testimony was devoted to the subject of busing, with particular attention paid to routes involving the former Georgetown and Bothwell school districts to the north and the Sunnyside-Tanglenook district to the northeast.

Hamilton testified that Dr. Norris had informed him that 149 students were bused to Mark Twain or Jefferson via these routes as of Oct. 1, 1970. He added in testimony that none of these children were bused to Hubbard although to the best of his knowledge Hubbard would have provided a closer school for some of the bused students than Mark Twain or Jefferson.

Dr. Norris, taking the stand as the fourth HEW witness, defined the bus routes under discussion, tracing them on a Sedalia map for the benefit of those present. Dr. Norris testified to the effect that present bus routes would be inconveniently altered to allow stops at Hubbard.

Norris added that the "freedom of choice" method employed among Jefferson, Mark Twain and Hubbard elementary schools was in existence before his arrival in Sedalia in 1958.

The fifth and final witness of the hearing, and the only witness called by Brown, George Thompson, president of the Sedalia School Board, recounted in testimony an incident occurring in the mid-1950's following the Supreme Court landmark verdict on school segregation in 1954.

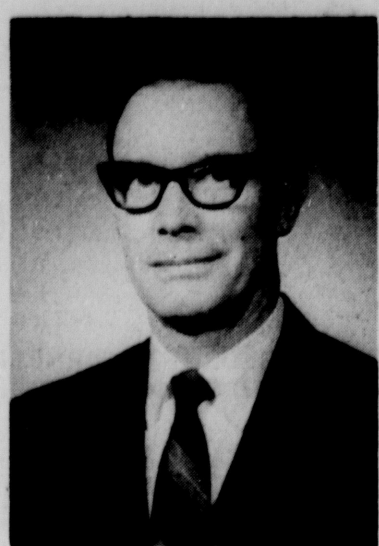

Thompson testified that during that time, as principal of one of the Sedalia elementary schools, he was attending a principal's meeting in the Superintendent's Office at Smith-Cotton High School when the student body of Hubbard High School staged a demonstration through the school hallways and the downtown area.

Thompson added that after that demonstration, Dr. Heber Hunt, then superintendent of schools, informed the board of a policy of allowing any student, regardless of race, to enroll in the school of his choice. Thompson testified that to his knowledge no student had been denied admission to a school on the basis of race since that time.

Killed in Crash

LEXINGTON, Mo. (AP) — Thomas Edgar Bertz, 17, of rural Lexington died today when the car he was driving collided with a tractor-trailer on Route 0 about three miles south of M13.

John Kenney, department manager of Montgomery Ward, has been chosen as business chairman for the 1971 United Fund Drive, according to Dr. Stephen Poort, chairman of the Pettis County campaign. Kenney, who has lived in Sedalia since 1946, resides at 1604 West 13th.

Safety Measure Is Introduced In the Senate

JEFFERSON CITY — State Sens. Ike Skelton, D-Lexington, and Norman Merrell, D-Monticello, introduced a resolution Thursday in the state Senate calling for a Senate-House interim committee to study and make recommendations for a new safety responsibility law.

The action was prompted, according to Skelton, by a recent United States Supreme Court decision that struck down Georgia's safety responsibility law, one similar to Missouri's. In that ruling, the court declared as unconstitutional provisions of the Georgia financial responsibility law that revokes the drivers license of uninsured motorists who are involved in accidents, regardless of who is at fault, Skelton added.

Under present Missouri law, a motorist involved in an accident loses his drivers and automobile licenses unless he is insured or can post bond to cover any injuries.

Unemployment Rate Decrease Is Noted

JEFFERSON CITY — Missouri's unemployment rate dropped from 5.8 per cent in March to 5.3 per cent for April, according to a report from Herman Julien, director of the Missouri Division of Employment Security.

Figures released Friday by Julien also show nonfarm employment increased by more than 16,100 from mid-March to mid-April.

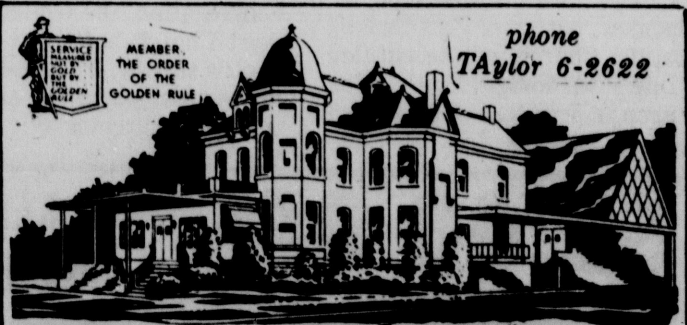

Julien attributed improved weather conditions for construction, seasonal hirings in retail trade, and hirings in government for the processing of income tax returns accounted for a major part of the rise in nonfarm employment across the state.

Kiwanis Officers Elected

The results of recent balloting were announced at the Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday at the Bothwell Hotel.

President Monty McQuitty announced that Jim Woods was elected president; James Ryan, vice president and president-elect, and Cecil Stephenson, Tom Foster, Doug Kneibert and Dean Allee, directors. Gene Landon also was elected a director to fill an unexpired term.

James W. Woods

New officers will be installed Oct. 1.

A statistical profile of Missouri's labor force now and in the future was presented by Charles Foster, director of guidance services with the State Department of Education. Foster said the greatest growth in the job force during the 1970's will be in the 25-34 age group, during which time service-type jobs will outstrip those in production.

Turning to Pettis County, Foster said the high percentage of elderly people in the county combined with a school dropout rate of 4.6 per cent (compared to the state average of 3.2 per cent), could combine to cause problems in meeting labor demands of the 70's.

Pettis County's unemployment rate currently stands at 4.6 per cent, Foster said.

The speaker was introduced by Dean Allee, program chairman.

Three new members, Bob Austin, the Rev. James Kane and V. E. McRoy, were inducted into Kiwanis by Henry Salveter.

Guests were Bill Hiatt, with Oren Henry, and Herb Bean, Lee's Summit, with John St. Clair.

Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal, accompanied by Mrs. Lillian Maynard.

GI Drug Problem Growing Concern

Missouri's junior senator, Thomas F. Eagleton, is a man who is doing some serious thinking about the dimensions of the drug problem among America's youth.

It was Senator Eagleton who dredged up statistics showing that 8 BILLION amphetamines were being produced annually in this country, a figure far in excess of actual medical needs. He drafted a bill to curb this unconscionable practice, which fell short of passage.

Now, in his weekly newsletter, the senator discusses an equally alarming problem—the high incidence of drug addiction among U. S. servicemen in South Vietnam.

Only recently has the full extent of the drug problem in Vietnam begun to emerge, after the armed forces initially denied that such a problem existed, and then minimized it once it came into the open.

But there is no minimizing the shocking statistics: More than 60 per cent of servicemen experiment with dangerous drugs; even more smoke marijuana routinely; fifteen per cent are addicted to heroin. If anything, the statistics are open to question for being too conservative.

The heroin problem is particularly acute. A vial of 90 per cent pure heroin (vs. 5 per cent for most heroin on the illicit market in the U.S.) can be bought in Vietnam for $4. On the streets of St. Louis it would bring $600.

Returning veterans soon find that their cheap habit in Vietnam is a lot more costly in the States. Many of them no doubt turn to various forms of crime to support their addiction.

Senator Eagleton is rightly concerned that the Defense Department is not taking firmer steps to treat hooked veterans before they are foisted off on civilian society. He also urges that the United States pressure the South Vietnamese government to stop the free flow of dangerous drugs.

We could also pause to deplore the general breakdown in morale and discipline that has permitted the military drug problem to grow to such proportions.

But at this late date, after 50,000 American lives, untold billions of dollars and the tearing of our social fabric—all as a result of the Vietnam war—such complaints would be almost meaningless.

Waking Up

Military Racism Security Threat

By CARL T. ROWAN

WASHINGTON — Consider for a moment these recent developments which may or may not have made headlines in your town:

More than 120 servicemen were arrested at Travis Air Force Base in California after a night-long brawl in which blacks fought whites, blacks fought blacks, whites fought whites, and combinations fought each other.

Rowan

— Capt. Samuel L. Gravelly was promoted to rear admiral, becoming the first black man in history to hold flag rank in the Navy.

— Ten unidentified blacks, protesting racial discrimination, were blamed for a series of grenade explosions at Camp Humphreys near Seoul, South Korea.

— Rep. Shirley Chisholm (D-N.Y.) angrily attacked President Nixon's rumored intention to name South Carolina Republican Albert Watson, criticized even by whites for his strident white supremacy attitudes, to the Court of Military Appeals, the Supreme Court of military justice.

— Three black Army colonels were nominated to become brigadier generals.

— Black and white troops at Anjong Ni, South Korea, fought for three days in an outburst punctuated by firebomb explosions after a Korean owner closed a black-oriented "soul" nightclub with the intention of making it a more profitable "for whites" gin mill.

— When black Air Force men from all over South Korea gathered at Osan Air Base to pay tribute to the late Dr. Martin Luther King, the Air Force commander, Maj. Gen. Robert Maloy, and his wife took to the streets to march with the black airmen.

This may seem to be a list of unrelated episodes, adding up to nothing. Actually, all these incidents have heavy bearing on a problem that top Pentagon officials now know has become serious enough to constitute a threat to national security.

Generations of racial discrimination in the military is now producing the bitter fruit of racial polarization and racial violence that is serious enough to undermine the combat effectiveness of the armed forces.

Finally, the Pentagon seems to have moved seriously to ease racial tensions by wiping out the injustices that create them.

It is no mere luck of the draw that four blacks have been pushed to flag ranks in recent weeks. It is part of what is in truth an emergency-type campaign to keep internal conflicts from wrecking the military.

Defense Secretary Melvin Laird has made a young black, Frank Render II of Syracuse, the deputy assistant secretary of defense for civil rights. Render and L. Howard Bennett, the department's director for equal opportunity (military), have been roaming the world in recent months, probing the causes of brawls, listening to the gripes of black GIs, laying down the new law to base commanders.

What they have been telling Laird after these trips is truly alarming:

— Competition for women lies at the heart of much of the conflict. White GIs have transported racism to Vietnam, Thailand, Korea, Germany, Japan. The first thing they tell the girls who frequent clubs and bars around bases is that if they have anything to do with black GIs they will be labeled "black man's woman" and barred from white clubs.

— Blacks have reacted with such virulent racism that a white GI clearly risks his life when he walks into certain black clubs.

— Small bands of black GIs frequently assault random whites whom they do not know and who have done them no harm. These blacks explain that they can never "get even" for injustices done them by going through "the system," so they have declared guerrilla war on anything with a white face.

— The alleged injustices provoking blacks to violence may be discrimination in promotions, discrimination in off-base housing, or racial persecution within the field of military justice.

Render, Bennett, and their white colleagues have amassed convincing evidence that the black GIs have many legitimate gripes. Laird has backed them firmly in ordering some major reforms which I shall discuss in a later column.

Knowledgeable people in the Pentagon regard the situation as so serious that they say they refuse to believe the President will name defeated gubernatorial candidate Watson to a 15-year, $42,500 post on the Military Court of Appeals.

With military justice, or the lack of it, such an explosive element in the armed forces' troubles, naming Watson would seriously undermine everything Laird, Render, Bennett, have tried to do.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon is now getting competition from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the dubious distinction of being the government's champion spendthrift.

The latest evidence of this is a confidential, 48-page report on purchasing practices in the Social and Rehabilitation Service, the HEW bureau responsible for such vast programs as welfare and Medicaid.

The study, prepared by a team of HEW investigators, covers a period of just over a year in which more than $18 million in contracts were awarded to private firms by the bureau.

"Almost one half of SRS's procurements still are placed on a noncompetitive basis," the investigators found. Furthermore, they concluded that more than a third of the justifications offered for making the awards without bids were "inadequate."

Most federal contracts up for grabs must be advertised in the Commerce Business Daily, but the report says that "60 per cent of the contracts reviewed, which required publication, were not publicized by the Commerce Business Daily." Failure to do so is illegal.

Federal procurement regulations require that contracts which are not awarded by bid must be negotiated with the contractor after formal proposals are obtained from as many eligible companies as possible.

The investigation disclosed, however, that "SRS neglects to issue formal requests for proposals on noncompetitive procurements... Contract files contained no evidence that any meaningful negotiations were conducted."

And once the contracts are awarded, they are supposed to be strictly supervised. However, the report says: "Postaward administration of contracts is inadequate and limited to processing and payment of contractor's invoices and vouchers."

The investigators discovered one case where a contract was awarded to a consulting firm although its proposal was nearly $100,000 more than that of another firm which was qualified to do the work.

"There is nothing in the file to justify" the selection, the report concludes.

Note: This document is only one of several which we have obtained dealing with slipshod, even illegal purchasing practices in HEW. We earlier reported on two confidential studies which showed widespread abuses throughout the department with the Office of Education being the chief offender.

Sen. Sam Ervin's investigation into government snooping has produced some disturbing facts.

His latest discovery is that the Defense Department alone has accumulated 25 million life histories in the course of its security investigations. These are loaded with derogatory comments whispered into ears of eager gumshoes.

The Civil Service Commission keeps in its files several more million dossiers on people who have filed for federal jobs. Even the Federal Housing Administration receives confidential reports on the marital stability of prospective home buyers.

For reasons never explained, the State Department's passport office keeps a special report of passport applicants who have been married more than twice. The General Services Administration maintains a blacklist of businessmen who are considered poor risks.

Merry-Go-Round

HEW Turning Into Real Spendthrift

And of course, the FBI is constantly checking into the backgrounds of persons for one reason or another. It has in its files an estimated 180 million fingerprints, not to mention dossiers on tens of thousands of suspected security risks and crooks. It's no secret that the FBI keeps files on controversial figures suspected of nothing more incriminating than speaking their own mind.

All the dirt that government gumshoes pick up on people is swept into dossiers which are freely exchanged between federal offices. This gives an alarming number of government employees access to derogatory information about fellow citizens.

Ervin is so concerned about the increased use of Social Security numbers which could become the common key to link all the promiscuous, inaccurate and incomplete information about nearly all Americans.

DOT Doubletalk — The Department of Transportation is spending hundreds of millions to develop mass transit, but at the same time it quietly subsidizes and encourages its employees to drive to work. The taxpayer is now forking over more than $500,000 a year so 1,800 DOT permit holders can get cut-rate parking in the three-level underground garage below the department's Washington headquarters. Until recently, DOT workers had to pay $35 a month for a parking permit. Now they pay only $7.60. The government pays the rest. Result: more congested highways, more auto pollution and a greater need for mass transportation.

Airlift — The federal government picked up the flight tab the other day for top state National Guard generals and their wives attending a non-official pow-wow in Santa Fe. The brass hats and their ladies not only flew for free, but they used at least 45 National Guard planes for the trip. The occasion was the convention of the National Adjutants General Association, a private, non-governmental group. Estimated travel costs: $225,000.

Today's Thoughts

For our transgressions are multiplied before thee, and our sins testify against us; for our transgressions are with us, and we know our iniquities: Transgressing, and denying the Lord, and turning away from following our God, speaking oppression and revolt, conceiving and uttering from the heart lying words. — Isaiah 59: 12, 13.

False words are not only evil in themselves but they inject the soul with evil. — Socrates.

Slants

By DOUG KNEIBERT

It may not exactly sound like your idea of fun, but tour one of Sedalia's sewer plants some day. You'll learn a lot.

When I read the other day that the city had been rated excellent on all three of its sewage treatment plants, I was surprised. Like most of us in this ecological age, I had dark suspicions of Sedalia actually pouring raw sewage into streams behind its woods-shielded sewer plants.

Not so, I found, after getting a guided tour of the north plant, just off North Grand Avenue. It's a pretty elaborate operation.

Consider that Sedalia is faced with disposing of 4 to 5 million gallons of sewage a day. And that leaps to 12 to 14 million gallons after a heavy rain.

The north plant, like the other two, is a secondary treatment type, which includes a "polishing lagoon" before the effluent eventually finds its way into Brushy Creek. The "before and after" comparison is a real eye-opener, or nose-stopper if you prefer.

Ray Schultz has been overseeing the north plant with tender loving care for 22 years. His resident bird dogs are apparently no worse for the olfactory wear they experience.

Sewage effluent is only as good — or as bad — as what is pumped into the system. And some of the ingredients are real beauts.

City Engineer Bob Cunningham points out that a gallon of blood (two poultry plants in town) is the equivalent of 50,000 gallons of normal sewage water as far as treatment demands are concerned. A gallon of milk or milk byproducts (two dairies in town) equals 25,000 regular gallons of sewage water.

A stupendous amount of other assorted castoffs find their way into the sewage system, many coming from the storm sewers in downtown Sedalia, which are unfortunately linked into the sanitary system.

As one indication of what just the storm sewers can pick up, the Missouri Water Pollution Board noted in its recent report on the west plant that the addition of sewage effluents into Brushy Creek actually IMPROVED the quality of the stream.

While it's true that Sedalia is a lot better off than many communities as far as sewage disposal is concerned, there's still room for improvement. The south plant, for instance, is often overloaded, and needs an enlarged capacity.

The city has its hopes up for action on the proposed southwest sewage plant this year, now that the General Assembly looks like it will provide matching funds to obtain federal anti-pollution money.

Although as a breed newspapermen grow thick skins pretty quickly, it still causes a twinge when readers misconstrue the reasons for various editorial positions.

After publication of a couple of anti-parochial editorials recently, it was rumored around that we were "anti-Catholic." Far from it; some of my best friends are Catholics, as the saying goes.

We oppose parochialism on principle, not denominational grounds. In fact my own church, which operates several hundred parochial schools, would stand to benefit from parochialism.

Actually, I'm not smarting too much from the slur. It was kind of balanced out the other day by a woman who thought I was pro-Catholic for being against liberalized abortions.

Get set for some big news from Rival Manufacturing Co. The inside word is that a division of the Kansas City plant of Rival, probably the plastics assembly line, will be moved to Sedalia soon.

This would reportedly mean an additional 90 or 100 employees, and could be the initial move in a plan being considered to eventually transfer Rival's entire Kansas City operation to Sedalia and Clinton.

More than 150 members of the Elks Lodge Wednesday night trekked back to other days to celebrate "Old Timers Night." ... Various offices of the lodge were filled by the following past exalted rulers: William Schrader, Exalted Ruler; Philip McLaughlin, Esteemed Leading Knight; Dr. M. E. Gouge, Esteemed Loyal Knight; James C. Connor, Esteemed Lecturing Knight; D. E. Kennedy, esquire; Dr. Guy Tittsworth, Inner guard and Alan O'Bannon, chaplain.

95 Years Ago

A couple of men were yesterday taking in the verdant ones of Sedalia by a very old dodge. One was a dealer in meerschaum pipes, and the other in 18 carat gold rings. The way they worked it was this: They were "broke" and had a meerschaum pipe (or a ring) which had cost them, when they were flush, $25.00, but they needed money badly and would sell it for $5. The articles were worth about 25 cents. We learn that they did quite a nice business in the ring and pipe line.

Scientists now hold that man and the living anthropoid apes sprang from a common ancestor and parted thereafter.

Dry Cleaning Best For Cleaning Pillow

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Do tell Mrs. R. O. J. and Mrs. E. L. M. that the best and easiest way to clean feather pillows is to find a dry-cleaning establishment that has a pillow bar. Such services are often advertised in the spring. They clean the feathers and put them into new ticking covers and I find this well-worth the reasonable cost.

If they must be done at home, use a lightweight thin bag that is slightly larger than the cover. Put feathers into this bag, sew the end and then wash in a tub of suds. Rinse several times. Hang this bag on a line on a windy, sunny day until feathers are PERFECTLY DRY. They could be put in the dryer, set on low or medium heat, but it will take a long time as they must be absolutely dry or the feathers may mildew. When dry, put feathers back in the ticking case which has been washed or in a new one if it is needed. This is not an easy job so I heartily recommend sending them to a cleaning establishment if at all possible. — LENORE

DEAR POLLY — As a young teen-ager I had difficulty learning to take care of my clothes and to keep my room neat and clean. After asking me so many times to hang things up, my mother finally hit on a brilliant idea. One day I came home from school to find my room neat and clean but with signs all over it, such as "Don't throw that dress here," "Hang it up," "Ooops, dirty clothes hamper is in the bathroom" and "Sorry, I go in the closet, not on the floor." She warned me that the signs would stay there until I carried out their instructions. I learned — and quick. A friend of mine recently tried this with her teen-age son and it worked in two days. — KAREN from Kansas

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — After preparing and serving chocolate fondue in my enamel-lined fondue pot I noticed the chocolate had burned on to the bottom of the pot. I immediately washed it with hot water and a strong detergent but with little result. I soaked the pot for two weeks and tried just about everything else I know but the burned chocolate stays. I would appreciate any help from you or the readers. — JAYNE

'Maturity' Is Graduation Speech Topic

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KNOB NOSTER — The Rev. Paul Metcalf, pastor of the United Methodist Church here, spoke on "What Is Maturity?" at the Knob Noster High School Baccalaureate services last Sunday in the school auditorium.

"This is a complex world and a complex generation," Mr. Metcalf said, "and your most pressing goal is to be a mature adult." He stressed the importance of concern for others and building a better world.

The invocation was given by the Rev. Marvin E. Platt, pastor of the Christian Church, and the Rev. Richard Orrell, pastor of the Assembly of God Church, read the scripture lesson.

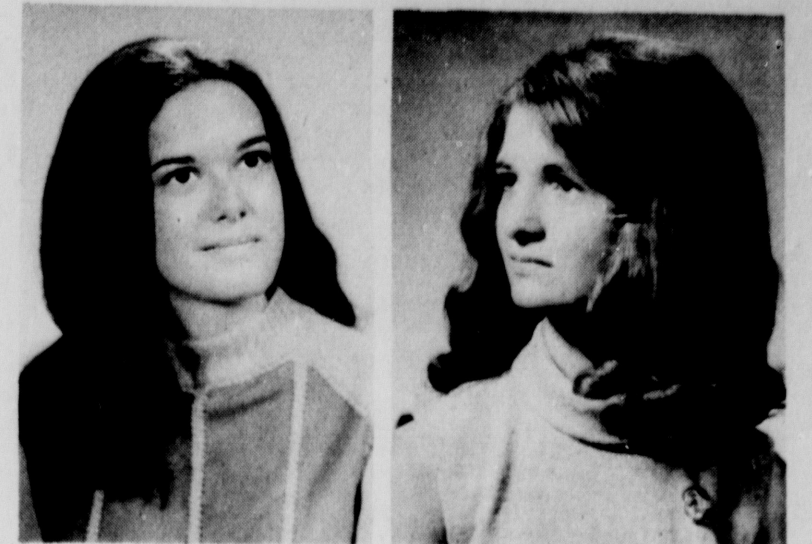

Songs were presented by the school choir with Mrs. Patty Schroeder, piano accompanist. The benediction was given by Elder Floyd C. Hursh of the Reorganized Church of Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Ann Landers

Family 'Affair' Creates Interest

Dear Ann Landers: I was delighted to read that you are in favor of married couples escaping from the humdrum of daily living and checking into a motel for the night. I can tell you from experience it has kept our marriage from bogging down — or maybe even falling apart.

Cy and I have been married 12 years. We have three healthy, normal children, but they are a handful and I need to get away from them periodically.

Two years ago when the baby was six months old, I felt as if I was cracking up. Everything got on my nerves. My doctor suggested that my husband and I take a weekend trip. "Just drive off somewhere," he said.

I'll always believe that weekend saved my sanity. The simple luxury of sleeping late for two glorious mornings in a row made a new woman out of me. That experience was so wonderful my husband and I decided to go again in 90 days — and we did, but just one night. (We couldn't afford to pay a sitter for longer.) After the second trip we made up our minds to treat ourselves to one night away every 90 days and not let anything interfere.

We get a great kick out of it when the desk clerks give us the eye. We know what they're thinking and we feel wicked and nudge each other.

Our best talking is done on these one-night trips. At home there are too many interruptions — too much to do — or we are too tired. It's wonderful to be alone for 18 hours with no kids yelling, no phone ringing, no housework or cooking. Nothing to do but enjoy one another's company.

For those couples who think they can't afford it, let me say it's cheaper than a nervous breakdown — or a divorce. One night in a hotel can be the best Marriage Saver in the world. And the value of THAT can't be measured in dollars and cents. — Mr. & Mrs. So Help Me.

Dear M. & M.: I received many letters such as yours, and I thank you — in behalf of the Holiday Inns and Howard Johnsons from coast to coast.

Dear Ann Landers: We have known each other for ten years. He says he is in love with me. I KNOW I am in love with him. We have all the important things in common: religion, education, age, physical attraction. The problem: I can't nail him down. No matter what approach I use he simply refuses to make a commitment. I've told him on several occasions to get out of my life if he doesn't want to marry me, but he won't. And I guess I don't want him to. He is the only man I have ever loved and he knows it. I am not interested in going out with anyone else. Neither is he. How did a sensible girl like me get trapped like this? What can I do about him? — New Hampshire.

Dear Hamp: You can't do anything about him — as evidenced by the history of your romance — but you can do something about yourself. Face the facts. Do you want to be a wife and mother? If so, you'd better drop this bird while your reproductive machinery is still functioning. If, on the other hand, he means so much to you that you simply cannot envision a life without him, you'll have to settle for the relationship on his terms, and hope that one day he will change his mind and want to marry you.

Plant Is Damaged By Thursday Blaze

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Fire caused an estimated $50,000 damage Thursday to the Hillbilly Building Co. plant between Springfield and Ozark on U.S. Highway 65.

The owner, John Richardson of Springfield, said the blaze was caused by sparks from a welding unit that landed in a tank of paint.

Director Named To Health Office

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dr. H. Denny Donnell Jr., 36, of Columbia will take over as director of the Bureau of Communicable Diseases in the state Division of Health June 1.

He was named to head the bureau Thursday, replacing Dr. E.A. Belden of Jefferson City who retired last June.

Donnell is now assistant professor of community health and medical practice at the University of Missouri Medical Center. He has been on the faculty of the medical school since leaving the Army four years ago.

Donnell received his M.D. from Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis and holds a master of public health degree from the University of California at Berkeley.

East and West have 22 high-card points: North and South only 18. East and West do have a 4-4 fit in hearts, but with the heart finesse losing and the 10 of clubs in the wrong hand the best they can make is two hearts. If North and South keep still, East or West will become declarer at two hearts and a spade is likely to be opened or to be left after a couple of rounds of diamonds. In that case, if declarer tries the heart finesse he will go down one trick because he will lose a ruff of a spade in addition to two diamonds, two clubs and the king of hearts.

The panel that analyzed the charity game did not pay any attention to the fact that the hand really belongs to East and West, but the players we watched did.

The bidding in the box is that at the first table we watched. South put in one of those non-vulnerable preemptive jump overcalls and bought the hand at three diamonds. He had no trouble making his contract with an overtrick.

At the next table we went to, East decided to open with one heart. South passed. West raised to two hearts and when that was passed around to South he refused to sell out and bid three diamonds. North bid four diamonds and East who must have been a trifle hungry elected to double.

South made the same four diamonds but scored 510, instead of just 130, for a real top score.

Utz Seeks Second Jaycee Race Title

Utz' New No. 98 Sprinter

Bill Utz likes the Missouri State Fairgrounds track, but he probably wishes the Sedalia Jaycees' super-sprint race Sunday was being held on the one-mile oval rather than the one-half mile circuit.

Utz' affection for the mile track at the Fairgrounds goes all the way back to 1966, when he won the rich International Motor Contest Association's Missouri Futurity during the State Fair and collected $1,000.

However, Utz found the smaller half-mile track to his liking last year, as he held off the super-sprint field through the 19th lap of Jaycees' feature event, when rain forced a halt to the 30-lap event.

Sunday's race will find Utz again hoping to hold off a fast field of super-sprint pilots as he seeks his second straight Jaycees Memorial Classic title and his first big win of the young racing season.

Utz had fuel injection problems early in the season; later his new Chevy-powered racer developed handling problems, as well as traction woes.

Seeking his second straight super-sprint feature win in Sunday's Jaycee event, Utz will have to battle a fast field in order to do so.

However, there has been only one consistent winner so far this year in central-Missouri super-sprint auto racing — the rain.

Rain has forced cancellation of three of the seven racing events at Capital Speedway, near Jefferson City, so far this year.

The four super-sprint features have been topped by four different drivers — Ray Lee Goodwin, Jerry Blundy, Junior Dietzel and Roy Hibbard.

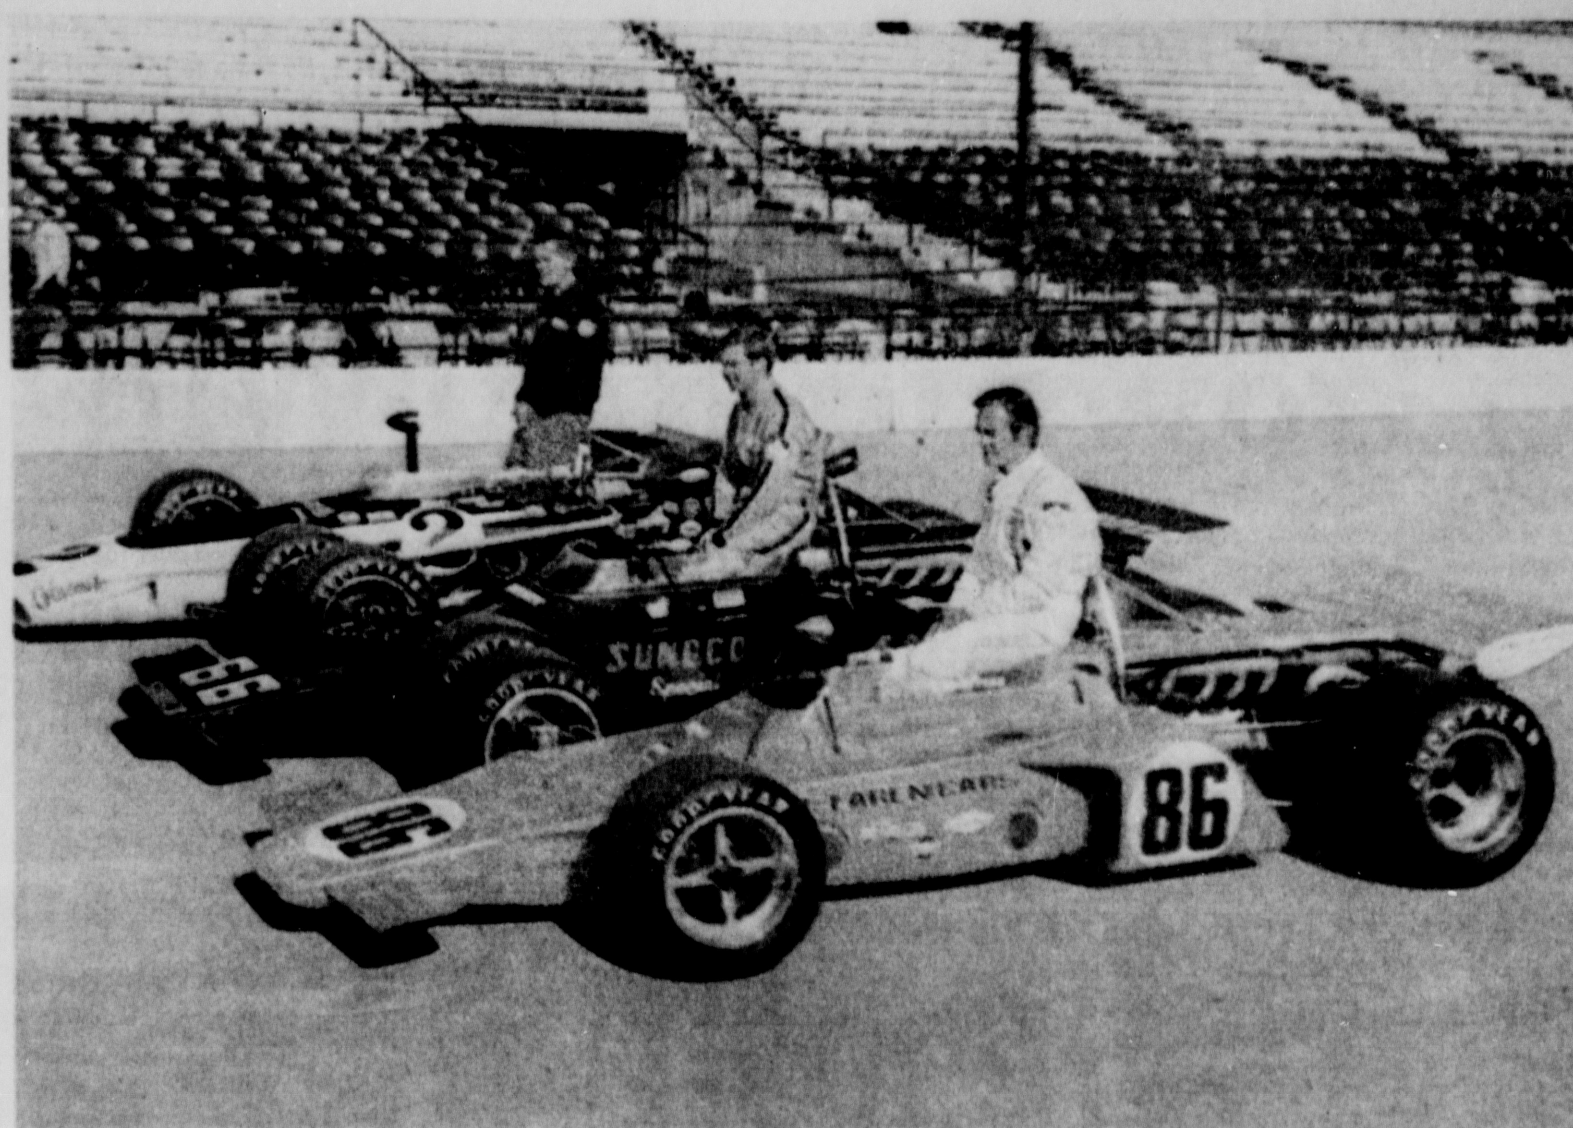

With no one driver having been successful in gaining a second win at Capital, it's anyone's guess who could be classed as the favorite in Sunday's event at the Fairgrounds.

However, a top field of nearly 50 drivers is anticipated by race chairman Gary Evert including Utz, Roy Hibbard (winner of the 1969 Jaycees' feature), brother Russell Hibbard, Ed Leavitt, Tom Corbin, Dick Sutcliffe, Jay Woodside, Junior Dietzel, Flea Atkin and Wib Spalding.

Sunday's day-long attractions get underway at 9 a.m., when the Silver Strings band opens the day's activity with country and western musical entertainment in front of the grandstand.

Time trials in the super-sprint division are scheduled to get underway at 10 a.m., while the first race is set for 1 p.m.

Following the super-sprint division races, the Jaycees are offering a demolition derby for the grandstand gathering at no extra cost.

Indy 500's Front Row

When the green flag is dropped Saturday morning for the 55th running of the Indianapolis 500, Peter Revson (background) will be on the starting row of this year's colorful event.

(UPI)

Foyt Eying Fourth Win

Revson, 500 Field Set For 55th Indy Classic

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The month of May has seen record speeds, innovations in aerodynamics and electronics and a surprise pole sitter at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The story will be completed Saturday with the 55th running of the Indy 500, the premier auto race in the United States.

Thirty-three cars will begin the race at 11 a.m. EST with Peter Revson of New York, in his bright orange Team McLaren Mark 16, on the pole.

Revson surprised favored Mark Donohue, Media, Pa., two weeks ago by edging the boyish-faced graduate engineer for the inside spot on the first row with an average speed for the four-lap trial of 178.696 miles per hour. Donohue's speed, good enough for the middle of the first row, was 177.087.

Filling out the front row is Bobby Unser, Albuquerque,

N.M., who drove his Eagle-Offenhauser to an average of 175.816.

Donohue, who became the first and only man to average more than 180 m.p.h. on a lap around the 2½-mile track, remains the co-favorite along with three-time winner A. J. Foyt, Houston, Tex.

Missouri Western Eliminated, 9-0

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Oshkosh, Wis., will represent NAIA Area 4 in the national tournament opening June 4 in Phoenix, Ariz.

Oshkosh won the berth by beating Missouri Western 9-0 Thursday for the championship of the area tournament. It was the first time Western had been shutout this season.

Oshkosh scored six runs in the fifth inning to wrap it up and earn its first national trip after reaching the area playoffs four straight years.

Foyt, driving a Coyote-Ford, will start the race on the outside of the second row, in sixth position. The man who won the Indy 500 in 1961, '64 and '67 qualified for his 14th attempt here with a 174.317 average speed for the four laps.

It was Donohue, driving his McLaren Mark 16 for car-owner Roger Penske of Philadelphia, who caused the biggest stir this month at the Speedway. The 34-year-old Donohue was consistently ahead of the rest of the field by as much as 10 miles an hour right from the beginning of practice, May 1.

Although practice times and speeds are unofficial, Donohue stunned nearly everyone when he pushed his blue Offenhauser-powered car to a 180.977 clocking on the Speedway's electric timer.

Donohue lost the pole spot and the approximately $20,000 that goes with it when the car, purchased from Team McLaren, developed a slippage in the suspension which cost the veteran driver important stability in the turns.

The three men who have won the 500 since Foyt's last victory will all be starting the race in the first three rows of the 11-row field.

Bobby Unser won the race in 1968. His younger brother, Al, the pole-sitter and winner last year, will start between Foyt and Revson's teammate, Denis Hulme of New Zealand, in the second row.

Mario Andretti, Nazareth, Pa., who won the 1969 race, will start on the outside of the third row. He'll be driving his new German-built McNamara-Ford, specially built for Andy Granatelli's team.

Pa. Cager Picks SFCC

Bill Barton, head basketball coach of the State Fair Community College Roadrunners, traveled to Aliquippa, Pa., and has signed one of the top high school cage prospects in that area to an athletic letter of intent for the coming basketball season.

Ronnie Shegog, a 6'5" center-forward who averaged 19 points and 15 rebounds per game the past season was his find.

He was named to the all-conference and the all-sectional teams the past two seasons.

His high school coach, Frank Jonsick, feels that Shegog was one of the best basketball players he has ever coached.

Barton commented on the signing of Shegog, "We are real happy that he chose our college and we know that he will be a great asset to our squad with his fine shooting and rebounding ability."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Moron Clark of Aliquippa, Pa.

Shegog is the fourth freshman prospect Barton has signed for the coming season.

He now joins Mark Jones, LaMonte, Brent Yates, Skyline (Urbana, Mo.) and Roger McPike, Bowling Green, Mo., as freshmen prospects for the 1971-72 campaign.

Big Late Model Race at I-70

ODESSA — A field of over 30 top late model stock car drivers will be on hand Sunday at I-70 Speedway for the Memorial 100.

The late models will compete in a complete show, including heats, dashes and the 100-lap feature event on the half-mile banked asphalt track.

Ernie Derr, the 11-time late model stock car division champion of the International Motor Contest Association, will be on hand behind the wheel of his 1970 Dodge.

Top I-70 front runners in current point standings, Dave Wall and Terry Bivins are expected in the field, also.

Third National Bank Has Early Gun Club Lead

After two weeks of competition in the Sedalia Rod and Gun Club's 16-week summer trap shoot, Third National Bank has a slim lead over Tucker's DX, 191-186.

Following in third place is Osage Thrift Shop with a score of 180, while Turner's Sheet Metal and Trojan Seed round out the top five positions with team totals of 178 and 177 respectively.

Jim Hamilton was the top individual shooter in Wednesday's matches with a 25x25; Art Richards, Clarence Mahin, Don Isaac and Kenneth Schrader each fired 23x25 to tie for runner-up honors.

Osage Thrift shop posted the leading team score in Wednesday night's competition with a 95x100; Turner's Sheet Metal followed with a 94x100.

Current Team Standings
Third National Bank 191, Tucker's DX 186, Osage Thrift Shop 180, Turner's Sheet Metal 178, Trojan Seed 177, Standard Oil and Fertilizer 176, State Fair Restaurant and Fitzwilliam Motors 174, LeRoy's Steak House 172, Bill and Marcia's Cafe 169, Ray's Skelly Service and S-M Sporting Goods 166, Farmers and Merchants Bank 164.

Gary Martin, California, Mo., and Donnie Cooper, Sedalia, two other drivers in the top ten in the current I-70 points race, will also be in the racing event.

The winner of the 100-lap late model feature will pocket $1,000 of the total purse, which stands at $4,500.

The hobby stocks will also be in action in Sunday's program. The feature event in that division is scheduled for 25 laps.

Sunday will be helmet day at I-70, with the first 1,000 children under 12-years of age entering the gates receiving a free life-size racing helmet, from Whizzo the clown from Kansas City.

Sunday's first race is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Springfork Lake Holds Big Derby

Springfork Lake is sponsoring a three-day fishing derby, which is scheduled to be held Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

Three $10 prizes will be given each day for the largest Channel Catfish, the largest Bass and the largest Crappie.

In addition, anyone catching a tagged fish will be given one day's free fishing at Springfork Lake.

Marty Liquori Is Pitted Against Slow Mile Field

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you apply the old thoroughbred racing theory of "horses for courses" to Villanova runner Marty Liquori and Franklin Field, the only way Liquori can fail to win his third consecutive IC4A mile championship this weekend is if he falls down.

In four years of competition on Franklin Field's lightning fast Tartan surface, Liquori has never been in a losing race. This includes running on one freshman and nine varsity Penn Relay winners, his second IC4A mile triumph, and the 3:54.6 victory two weeks ago over Jim Ryan in the Martin Luther King Games.

Villanova is favored to outscore Maryland in the team competition for its 11th title in 15 years, but Liquori's bid for a feat accomplished only twice in the 94-year history of the IC4A has the spotlight. He is seeking his sixth IC4A mile championship—three indoors and three outdoors, accomplished previously by Leslie Mac Mitchell of New York University—1940-41-42—and Dave Patrick of Villanova — 1966-67-68 — Liquori would be the seventh in meet history to win the outdoor mile three times.

Seven defending champions are scheduled to compete in the two day track and field meet involving 70 teams and 1,225 athletes, the most ever. Freshmen are eligible this year for the first time since World War II, with the exception of Ivy League entrants.

Liquori faces a field which includes William and Mary's Howell Michael, Maryland's John Baker, Penn's Karl Thornton, Mike Mosser of West Virginia and possibly Duke's Bob Wheeler and Manhattan's Joe Savage, both freshmen.

Michael defeated Liquori in the AAU outdoor championships last year, while Baker once beat the Villanova ace indoors.

Sweep Cub Series

St. Louis' Margin Grows in 10-0 Win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — You can take it from Chris Zachary that robust hitting is a prime factor involving a pitcher's effectiveness in the major leagues.

Zachary, a 27-year-old right-hander, watched his teammates rip into Ferguson Jenkins for five runs in two innings Thursday night.

The rest was comparatively easy as the St. Louis Cardinals shredded the Chicago Cubs 10-0 to complete a three-game sweep and boost their National League East Division lead to a game over the idle New York Mets.

"It makes all the difference in the world, the kind of support you get out there," said Zachary, who restricted the Cubs to two hits.

The victory, boosting his record to 2-1, was not only his first complete game in three major league stints but required only 101 pitches.

Only Jenkins, who doubled down the rightfield line in the third inning, and Chris Zanczaro, who singled in the sixth, reached base for the Cubs.

Zachary, whose previous stops in the big leagues were with the Houston Astros and Kansas City Royals, faced only 29 batters — two over the minimum.

"It's a good feeling to get all those runs, I'll tell you," he said. "I've never had that feeling before in the big leagues."

"You can challenge the hitters with your fast ball," added Zachary, who struck out three and walked none. "You don't have to be so fine with your pitches."

In support of Zachary, acquired last July 1 in exchange for relief pitcher Ted Abernathy, the torrid Cardinals pounded out 16 hits including a dozen in 6-2-3 innings off Jenkins (8-4).

Joe Torre drove in two runs with a double in the first inning that lifted the Redbird express off the ground and three more runs poured across on four hits for a 5-0 lead the next time around.

Heavy contributors to the Cardinal attack were Lou Brock, whose three singles produced three runs and stretched his hitting streak to 23 games, and Torre and Jose Cardenal with two rbi each.

O'Connors Drops

Clarksburg Twice

The O'Connor Chevy-Buick softball team swept a doubleheader from Clarksburg Thursday night at Housel Park. John Fiene struck out 11 and walked none in leading the locals in a 10-0 win in the opening contest. Ron Mooney and Tom Hunter led O'Connors with four-for-four and three-for-four hitting performances.

Bill Dey socked a home run and went two-for-three at the plate as did teammate John Higgins in the second contest, which O'Connors won, 3-2. Archie Shireman was the winning pitcher in the late game.

Next home action for O'Connors at Housel Park will be Thursday night, when they take on Hamm's in a twinbill.

Optimists To Play

Exhibition Games

The Sunrise Optimist basketball club of the Sedalia Junior Babe Ruth League will host a team from Jefferson City in an exhibition doubleheader, Saturday evening at Centennial Park.

The first game is scheduled to get underway at 5:30 p.m.

ISU AD Post To McCullough

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Louis G. Lou McCullough, a former Iowa State University assistant football coach, was named Thursday as the new athletic director at ISU.

McCullough, currently associate football coach at Ohio State University, succeeds Clay Stapleton, who left ISU to accept a similar position at Florida State University.

Prof. Robert C. Fellingner, ISU Athletic Council chairman, said the council was "enthusiastic" in recommending McCullough. "Lou is a man of tremendous ability and drive," Fellingner said. "He meets all the requirements the council established when it began the search for a director."

Both at Iowa State and Ohio, McCullough earned a reputation as an outstanding recruiter and coach. He and Stapleton had often coached together, including Iowa State from 1958-62, and both were assistant coaches on the football staff at Wofford College and the University of Wyoming earlier.

Ziegler Cards a Hot 62

Memphis Tourney

Ziegler Cards 62 For Lead

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — It looks like Larry Ziegler is going to miss the Indianapolis 500 for the first time in five years.

"I've never finished more than 27 holes here before, and I was always in Indianapolis by Saturday," Ziegler said Thursday after cutting out a remarkable 62 for the first round lead in the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Golf Classic.

"I've played here four times before," the sometimes stock boy for the St. Louis Blues hockey team said, "and I always had to pull out—bad knees, bad elbows, bad head."

"I almost didn't come this year, but since they're going to plow up the course before next year, I thought I'd give it one more whack."

Ziegler's eight-under-par effort, his career best, matched the low 18-hole round on the pro tour this year and gave him a two-stroke lead over always-dangerous Frank Beard going into today's second round.

Beard, winner of the New Orleans Open four weeks ago, used a rebound putting touch—he needed only 26 strokes on the greens—en route to a 64 on the Colonial Country Club course, a 6,466-yard, par-70 layout that is one of the shortest the tourists play all year.

He had 10 one-putt greens, including one string of six in a row.

Lee Trevino and Chi Chi Rodriguez were two more strokes back at 66, with Deane Beman heading a quartet at 67. The others at that figure were Jim Colbert, Jerry Heard and Mike Reasor.

Gene Littler, winner of last week's Colonial National Invitation, had a 68 and Billy Casper was one of a large group at 69.

While most of the tourists found the little layout to their liking, Dave Hill had his troubles. The winner of this event three times in the last four years, Hill could manage only a 71, well back in the pack.

Hill, who had to pay a $500 fine for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer" before he could play, must improve if he is to make the cut for the final two rounds.

Golfers Beware!

Dividing for gold balls in this pond at Hidden Hills Country Club, Jacksonville, Fla., might be a little dangerous in the future. State game and fish officer Robert Brantley had a little problem convincing this 11-foot alligator he should make his new home at the golf course. The 'gator' was brought to the pond after residents in Lake City, Fla. complained he was crawling away from his pond and visiting their backyards. (UPI)

British Lay Claim On Walker Trophy

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — There were no alibis from the United States golfers today over losing the Walker Cup to Great Britain for the first time in 33 years.

"We have no excuses," said John Winters, the non-playing captain of the Americans. "It was a great tournament. We enjoyed every minute of it and the best players won."

ABA, NBA Clash

Cage Showdown Slated Tonight

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The National Basketball Association headed for its first on-the-court showdown with the rival American Basketball Association tonight with player of the year Lew Alcindor holding the balance of power over the younger league.

But what if Lew doesn't play in the game?

That possibility arose Thursday night on the eve of the 8:30 p.m. EDT nationally televised clash when it was announced in Washington, D.C. that Alcindor would be married today.

Alcindor, the architect of Milwaukee's NBA championship, did not arrive here Thursday with other NBA stars but was scheduled to be on hand today for a workout before tonight's game.

Plans now call for Alcindor to catch a flight from Washington following the wedding in time to honeymoon in the Astrodome tonight—providing he makes flight connections.

The NBA would remain the favorite even without Alcindor because of its experience, but it would give the prestige-hungry ABA a closer match.

In another move affecting the NBA lineup, the Baltimore Bullets announced they did not want Earl Monroe to play in the all-star contest. A club spokesman said if Monroe played the Bullets "could take whatever measures are spelled out in his contract—which includes suspension or fine."

The British gained their first victory since 1938 in the famed amateur competition by taking six straight singles matches that turned a 10-7 deficit into a 13-11 triumph in the windup of the two-day tourney Thursday.

"Hang on to that cup," Winters admonished the British. "In two years we'll be back to get it and you might not see it for another 33 years."

"I always knew this team was deep, sound and able to win," commented British captain Michael Bonallack who was beaten 3-1 by Lanny Wadkins, the U.S. Amateur champion from Richmond, Va.

Bonallack gave special praise to 19-year-old Warren Humphries and 20-year-old Roddy Carr, son of Ireland's famed amateur, Joe Carr.

Their two triumphs highlighted the British comeback after Wadkins' victory over Bonallack had put the Americans ahead 10-7.

Hugh Stewart beat Vinnie Giles of Richmond, Va. 2 and 1, then Humphries shaded Steve Melnyk, Jacksonville, Fla. 2 and 1 and Charlie Green beat Allen Miller, Pensacola, Fla. on the final hole to square things at 10-10.

Roddy Carr then put the British ahead to stay by beating Jim Simons, of Butler, Pa. on the final hole with a 30-foot putt. George MacGregor followed with a 1-up victory over Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta and David March clinched the Cup by defeating veteran Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia 1 up.

The United States players now will compete in next week's British Amateur Golf Championships at nearby Carnoustie.

But Monroe said he was packing for Houston. "It's a matter of principal that I play. I'll be there."

The ABA, hoping to achieve some recognition against the older league, is led by Rick Barry, who has starred in both leagues, rookie sensation Charlie Scott of Virginia, Zelmo Beaty of the Utah Stars, and Indiana's Mel Daniels.

Kennedy Center Dedicated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's newest culture showcase, the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, has opened its doors for the first time: a high-society preview viewing party to benefit the disadvantaged.

Some 3,500 persons paid $40 or $100 each Thursday night to attend the party. Money will be used to make the Kennedy Center accessible to the young, old and poor, beginning with the Sept. 8 premiere of an orchestral work by Leonard Bernstein.

The National Cultural Center was renamed the Kennedy Center two months after the death of President John F. Kennedy. His brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said at the preview: "This center is not only magnificent, but the significance of it is what happens inside of it. What is terribly important now is that we have creativity here. And it's important that money be raised like tonight so that people who don't have much money can attend."

Looking around the center, where, unlike the culture centers in Los Angeles and New York, all the halls are under one roof, pianist Victor Borge said, "It's bigger than Denmark." Gazing at the 100-foot-high ceiling, he added, "And it's taller."

Patrons entered through the Hall of Nations, hung with flags of countries recognized by the United States. The parallel Hall of States was hung with state flags. Both halls lead to the Grand Foyer and its outdoor terrace, which run the length of the building, 630 feet, along the Potomac River. The opera house, between the two entrance halls, and the concert hall and Eisenhower Theater, at each end of the building, all open from the grand foyer.

Eunice Shriver, sister of the late president, trying to make a tour and constantly being greeted, said, "We haven't walked too far yet, but outside you see the trees of an island bird sanctuary in the Potomac and the river. I think it's a beautiful setting."

Rose Kennedy, the late president's mother, and two more sisters, Pat Lawford and Jean Smith, also were present.

So were Mamie Eisenhower, whose late husband signed the National Cultural Center Act in 1958; Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenhower, Marjorie Merryweather Post, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Martha Mitchell, Perle Mesta, Sol Hurok, George Romney, Arthur Goldberg, Capt. Lloyd Bucher, Eric Bruhn, Agnes de Mille, Otto Schlesinger, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, Rep. Hale Boggs, Henry Mancini, Count Basie, Lawrence O'Brien, Laurence Rockefeller, Otto Preminger, Rep. James W. Symington, Henry Kissinger, Sen. Birch Bayh, Jack Valenti, Byron Janis, Robert Finch.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey was succinct about the center. "I love it."

Key Is Missing

Court records listed Moriarty's gross handle in 1961 at more than $43,000 a day—better than $15 million a year. He was a loner in his profession and the profits were his alone.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief justice of the United States may need a professional safecracker to perform a biennial task assigned him 100 years ago.

He is supposed to open the "centennial safe" hidden away in a Capitol storage room. But nobody can find the key.

The fireproof, velvet-lined safe, supposedly containing documents, photographs and memorabilia of the 1876 U.S. Centennial, carries an inscription requesting it be opened July 4, 1976, by "the chief magistrate of the United States."

A memorandum given to a House Appropriations subcommittee recently by George M. White, architect of the Capitol, indicates the key to an inner door in the safe and instructions on how to open the vault were deposited with the Smithsonian Institution.

"They know nothing about it," said Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., a committee member.

The office of the architect figures the combination to the outer door is somewhere in the Capitol files.

The hearings, a transcript of which was made public today, hinted the safe may be so weather-beaten from years of exposure to the elements that the outer lock may be out of order.

They cast a cloud of doubt about whether some of the things supposed to be opened to public view are actually inside.

"A reliable tradition recorded in the architect's office," the committee learned, "is that a custodian made a bit of pin pursuing a lawful business, vocation or profession."

Women should not be excluded from bartending "for their own safety," but should be permitted to take their chances along with men when they are otherwise qualified for the job, Associate Justice Raymond E. Peters said in the court's opinion.

"Such tender and chivalrous concern for the well being of the female half of the adult population cannot be translated into legal restrictions on employment opportunities for women," Peters said of the 1936 law.

"The pedestal upon which women have been placed has all too often... been revealed as a cage."

Peters noted that the state attorney general had argued that the legislature believed that a male bartender or owner must be present to preserve order and protect patrons.

"This argument ignores modern day reality," Peters said. "Today most bars, unlike the saloons of the Old West, are relatively quiet, orderly and respectable places patronized by both men and women."

The court ruled on appeals by two Los Angeles bar operators, Sailors Inn, Inc., and Walter Robson. The state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control had sought to revoke their licenses for using women bartenders.

Probe Moriarty Kidnap

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — It's been nearly nine years since Joseph "Newsboy" Moriarty turned his back on a cache of $2.6 million in his numbers racket profits, after they turned up in Jersey City garages. But if he's forgotten the money, others haven't.

Once described as an honest man in a crooked business, Moriarty, 60, was recovering today from a beating and torture by fire at the hands of three unidentified kidnapers, bent upon learning if and where he had hidden additional money.

Seized here late Wednesday, Moriarty was handcuffed and a hood placed over his head. He was driven south about 60 miles along the Jersey shore. There his hands and face were severely burned with a blowtorch, his body covered with bruises.

When his abductors fell asleep, Moriarty managed to escape still in handcuffs. He staggered through some woods to a motel, where police were called about 4 a.m. Thursday.

After treatment, Moriarty signed himself out of Jersey City Medical Center and dropped from sight.

"We have no idea why he was kidnaped or who might be responsible," said Jersey City's deputy police chief, Patrick McGee. "Newsboy told us he was not sure he could identify the three men, and he didn't even know where the house was. He only said: 'They were real tough guys.'"

It was July 3, 1962, when Moriarty's millions were uncovered by accident. He had gone to prison four months earlier, serving 2-to-3 years on a numbers conviction.

Wreckers tore down the doors of an old garage, and came upon a 16-year-old sedan. Inside the car were stacks of $10, $20, $50 and $100 bills—$2,438,110 in all.

Subsequently, in a garage a block away, police found another cache, this one of $168,675.

Moriarty declined to claim the money, or even admit it was his.

Rep. Gonzales Says:

Crooked Life Easy Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's easier for a crook to take over a million-dollar bank than for an honest man to open a beer hall, says Rep. Henry B. Gonzales.

The aspiring beer hall owner often has to prove, in a public hearing, he won't ruin the neighborhood or the competition.

But there's not a furrow in the federal brow, the Texas Democrat says when a shady character buys out a respectable, established bank and begins to use its customers' money to line his own pockets.

Since he says most takeover artists are borrowing money from one bank to control another, Gonzales has proposed legislation prohibiting banks from loaning money for the purpose of buying shares in a second bank.

For his efforts, he's received many angry letters, he said in an interview.

But Gonzales, a member of the House Banking Committee, is pushing for at least a modified form of his bill.

Gonzales said he's heard some good arguments for yielding on some points. He said he might settle for less than an outright ban on takeover loans if he could substitute a requirement for advance federal approval of any change in ownership of banks.

In the last 15 years, Gonzales said, bank takeovers have risen spectacularly.

"Too many have not been healthy. They have been bought out for speculative reasons and this is what I'm trying to control," he said. Gonzales said there are a number of ways one bank can exploit the resources of another bank it controls.

"They can milk it," he said, "creaming off the chief accounts by bringing them into the central bank. They can consolidate all credit life insurance policies (those taken out to protect debts) into the central bank because this is a very profitable operation. And they can unload bad paper on the bank taken over, leaving it with questionable or weak loans."

"Right now," Gonzales said, "all the law requires for an insured state or federal bank when there is a change in management is to report to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. That's all. There's no power of review."

Injuries Fatal

VIRBURNUM, Mo. (AP) — William R. Wilhite, 55, of Dillard, Mo., was fatally injured Thursday night when his pickup-camper truck left the road north of Virburnum.

The highway patrol said Wilhite's machine sideswiped one tree, continued on for about 100-feet and smashed headon into a second tree.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION OF NOTICE.
The State of Missouri to the above-named and described defendants.

You and each of you are hereby notified that a petition has been filed against you in the Circuit Court of Missouri, Eighteenth Judicial Circuit (Pettis County) at Sedalia, Missouri, by Elliott M. Stafford, Jr., the sole Successor Trustee of the Trust established under the will of May H. Ilgenfritz, deceased, the object and general nature of which is to change the method of administering said Trust to (1) broaden the scope of the guidelines heretofore followed by the Trustee in granting scholarships for "higher education"; (2) allow outright health care grants to crippled children and indigent patients at the John H. Bowhell Memorial Hospital and any similar institution located in Sedalia, and to allow outright donations of appliances and equipment for such patients to such hospitals (3) allow the Trustee to distribute in lump sum the amount of $1,000 to the Sedalia Cemetery Association Fund in the Sedalia City Treasury, for administration by the governing board of such Association in maintaining the family monument in Crownhill Cemetery, in full satisfaction of the reference in Settlor's Will regarding maintenance of said monument; (4) to give the Trustee the administrative authority required in order to avoid probative taxes and penalties imposed by the Tax Reform Act of 1969; (5) to accept the resignation of the petitioner as Trustee and to approve his account from January 1, 1971 to the date of filing the same (at or before the hearing) and in particular to approve his accumulation and reinvestment of income during the entire period of his administration, to appoint his successor (s) and upon delivery of the Trust assets to such Successor Trustee (s) against proper receipt therefor, to fully and finally discharge petitioner for all purposes and to discharge petitioner and his surety on petitioners bond filed herein, and (6) to allow reimbursement from the Trust of Trustee's fees, legal fees and expenses of the interested parties.

The names and addresses of all the parties to said action are started above to the extent known to petitioner and the names and address of the attorneys for petitioner are Lamm, Barnett, Crawford, Barnes & Fritz, 118 West Fifth Street, Sedalia, Missouri 65801 and Hillis, Brewer & Myers, 27th Floor, Commerce Tower, P. O. Box 13367, Kansas City, Missouri 64199.

You and each of you are further notified that unless you file an answer or other pleading or shall otherwise appear and defend against the aforesaid petition within forty-five (45) days after the first publication hereof on the 28th day of May, 1971, judgment by default will be rendered against you.

IT IS ORDERED that a copy hereof be published according to law in Sedalia Democrat a newspaper of general circulation published in the County of Pettis, State of Missouri, at Sedalia.

A true copy from the record.

Which is the perfect Datsun for you?

THE 510 4-DOOR SEDAN

Performance-the missing element in many small cars-is spelled "96-HP overhead cam engine." That means 0-60 in 14 seconds and plenty of freeway zing.

Choose the standard all-synchromesh 4-speed stick, or the optional automatic. Add air conditioning, vinyl top, a stereo if you like, and slip off to the country.

You can go family plan in luxury. Leather-like vinyl covers fully reclining front buckets. There's full carpeting, tinted glass, flow-through fresh air. A rugged, sound-proofed unibody. And a smooth ride on 4-wheel fully independent suspension.

- OR - THE 510 2-DOOR SEDAN

We gave it 13 cubic feet of trunk space to haul more groceries and luggage. And glove-soft vinyl seats to take a lot of commuting abuse and keep you sitting pretty on the long treks.

Tinted glass, flow-through fresh air, soundproofing and undercoating are all comfort-conditions for any kind of driving.

And we gave it wide doors and a low price to make it easy to get into.

Fear Causes Inhibition In Sex Drive of Males

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband and I have been married for almost two years. He doesn't drink and has good habits. He is healthy and 24 years old. He never was a person who enjoyed sex but our relations were fair. Then the frequency gradually decreased until now he has no desire at all. We enjoy each other's company and I know he loves me. He has a child from a previous marriage and doesn't want any more children. I don't know what to do since we can't afford a doctor.

Dear Reader — Your husband is probably suffering a great deal more anxiety and stress about this problem than you are. A recent report said that as many as 40 per cent of American men have problems of the type your husband is experiencing.

There are many factors. One, interestingly enough, is excessive use of alcohol, which apparently does not apply to your husband. Many heavy drinkers lose their sexual capacity early in life. Often these difficulties are rooted in emotional and psychiatric problems. Some men have so much fear of an inadequate performance that the fear itself inhibits them.

Reassurance and a loving wife are the two best treatments for this problem.

Sometimes individuals do have illnesses which cause their difficulties. These can only be detected by an adequate medical examination. It is very important in these areas as well as in other areas of married life, for the husband and wife to have frank and sympathetic communication with each other.

Your minister might be able to help. Many are well informed on intimate family problems. He might help you find a marriage counselor for professional help. The best place to start would be with a doctor, if you can arrange it. I would like to emphasize that you do need help.

Sometimes it helps just to know that your problem is not unique. In fact, it is downright common. Short of being able to obtain medical or other help, about the best thing I could suggest would be to obtain a copy of Masters and Johnson's "Human Sexual Inadequacy" to study the problem and suggested methods to overcome some of them.

Perhaps the mutual project of reading and understanding the book along with sympathetic understanding, would help the two of you to overcome your problem.

Steiger Is Intense Professional

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "I usually don't do this sort of thing, you know," Rod Steiger said as he neared the end of an 11th hour promotion campaign for "Waterloo."

Steiger is the intense professional who has built a career around portraying grim frustration in such films as "On the Waterfront," "The Pawnbroker," "The Sergeant" and "In the Heat of the Night," for which he won a best-actor Oscar.

"Actor" is a better way to describe him than "star" and his dislike for the flamboyant publicity game is understandable when you draw that distinction. He is to Rock Hudson what Dick Butkus is to Joe Namath, what Wilbur Mills is to Spiro Agnew.

He also may be too honest to be a good publicist.

"Waterloo," a belligerent epic that appears to be an attempt to make an instant replay of the battle, and Steiger's performance as Napoleon have both met with the ultimately mixed critical reaction — from bad, worse, worst to good, better, best. But Steiger himself talks about the movie in such terms as "not too bad," "pretty good" and "better than it might have been."

"I would have liked to see more of Napoleon in the movie," he said, shrugging. "But then I'm hardly impartial and the movie was called 'Waterloo,' not 'Napoleon.' Some day I'd like to get a company together to do a small budget, intimate film on Napoleon himself and get inside the man."

After researching the part ("Movies would be 500 per cent better today if actors would do their homework, study their characters and confront them," he says. "Some actors are incredibly lazy."), Steiger decided he would portray Napoleon as a brooding man, a man dying of cancer — and a man who did not walk around with his right hand stuck inside his coat.

"Everybody has his own Napoleon," he said. "Some people might have wanted a more glamorous one than mine, but I think of him as one of the hardest working men in the history of the world. And while it drove some people up the wall that I wouldn't use the hand-in-the-coat gimmick, I thought that the minute I struck that pose I would reduce the man to a buffoon."

Steiger, who is now 46, just wandered into acting after he got out of the Navy in the mid-1940s but he has become a serious craftsman.

He turned down a chance at the "Patton" role that won George C. Scott an Oscar because he thought the movie was "pro-war." (Steiger wears a red, white and blue tie with peace symbols on it.) And he has definite ideas about what movies should be like.

"A film shouldn't be a lecture but it can say something through entertainment," he said. "It can say that man and woman are half of each other and nothing alone. It can say that there are no absolutes except life and death and that you have to make the most of what comes between."

Steiger's ambitions are varied. He said he would like to play Beethoven, Einstein, Macbeth, Ralph Nader and, most of all, Hemingway.

"I admire Hemingway because I want life to be an adventure, something that excites rather than bores," he explained.

WHALLEY APPOINTED

NEW YORK (AP) — John Whalley has been appointed executive in charge of southern European production for Columbia Pictures, it was recently announced.

In his new post, Whalley will work with filmmakers associated with Columbia in the production of films for local and world distribution. Whalley previously served as a production supervisor for Columbia in the southern European area.

'Jane Eyre' S sweeps Awards

NEW YORK — (NEA) — "Jane Eyre," the Delbert Mann film which premiered this season on NBC-TV, has won Best Film, Best Actor and Best Actress Awards in a nationwide balloting of nearly 1,000 television editors and critics conducted by TV Scout, the television preview service for newspapers.

Best Actor honors went to George C. Scott for his portrayal of Edward Rochester in the screenplay adapted by Jack Pulman from the Charlotte Bronte novel.

Susannah York, the British actress, was voted Best Actress for her portrayal of the title role in the film.

Although the TV Scout Awards have been presented for three years, this is the first time recognition has been restricted to feature films which were first shown on or made exclusively for television. In the national balloting, "Jane Eyre" emerged as the clear winner.

Of the 48 films made for television this season, editors and critics were asked to nominate five, along with five actors and actresses. After nominations were tabulated by the TV Scout staff, official ballots were mailed to the participating editors and critics, which included subscribers to the TV Scout service, subscribers to Newspaper Enterprise Association, of which TV Scout is a division, and to major metropolitan newspapers which do not subscribe to either TV Scout or NEA.

Nearly all daily newspapers in the United States participated in the balloting.

In the final ballot, editors were asked to choose one nominee in each of three categories.

"Jane Eyre" was sponsored by the Bell System Family Theater and telecast by NBC-TV on March 24. The program will be repeated next season. Made in England, the film also starred Jack Hawkins, Ian Bannen and Nyree Dawn Porter. It was produced by Frederick Bogger and James Franciscus.

Other films nominated were "Vanished" (NBC), "Tribes" (ABC), "The Neon Ceiling" (NBC) and "Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring" (ABC).

Best Actor nominees were Scott, Edward G. Robinson (for "The Old Man Who Cried Wolf"), Gig Young (for "The Neon Ceiling"), Bing Crosby (for "Dr. Cook's Garden") and Peter Falk (for "Ransom for a Dead Man").

Best Actress nominees were Miss York, Lee Grant (for "The Neon Ceiling"), Sally Field (for "Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring"), Julie Harris (for "How Awful About Allen") and Vera Miles (for "In Search of America").

Senate On Notice of Possible Political Trouble

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is on notice that there may be political trouble built into an amendment to extend the draft only until June 30, 1972, leaving the issue to face action again at the very beginning of a national election campaign.

But the chief sponsor of the one-year draft measure, due to face a vote June 4, said that is the way it should be.

"It should be part of the dialogue in an election year," said Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa. "That's the way the democratic process ought to work."

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said an extension that would leave the draft law to lapse in a campaign year would be bad timing that would turn the matter into "a red hot issue."

It would be the more so since Congress has voted to extend the right to vote to Americans 18 and older. That makes the draft registration age the voting age for House, Senate and presidential elections.

Now in the process of being ratified by the states, it would make an estimated 10 to 11 million young citizens eligible to vote.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., already has proposed an amendment to enable young men to register to vote in federal elections at the time they register for the draft.

"It is an easy and inexpensive way to help 18 year olds to register to vote at the same time they register to fight," Eagleton said.

The House has passed a two-year draft extension, and Stennis advocates that period.

Stennis made his comments before the Senate rejected an 18-month draft extension proposed by Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., who said that would give the Pentagon sufficient time to shift to an all-volunteer Army, and would move the expiration date past the election.

A one-year extension, he said, "would risk the political heat" of a national convention summer.

Dominick's proposal got only eight votes, but the one-year extension is believed to have substantial Senate support.

Its prospects may have been diminished, however, by Senate refusal to vote a $2.7 billion military pay raise as an inducement to volunteers. The Senate approved just under $1 billion in raises.

Schweiker said draft expiration on June 30, 1972, would come when South Vietnam manpower needs will be down and military pay up, although not in the amount he had advocated.

"You will have an election in terms of focusing on the issue," he said in an interview. "I think the volunteer Army has the best chance of being born next year."

Schweiker said if an all-volunteer force is proven impossible, and advocates of the draft prove the need for another extension, he believes Congress would enact it whatever the political climate.

"If they show the need, the members will rise to national security needs," he said.

Schweiker said the 1972 elections should be no liability in considering the draft.

He said Congress doesn't hesitate to deal with issues affecting other groups of Americans during election years, acting, for example, on medical care and other measures affecting the elderly.

Schweiker said it should be the same with the draft.

"What's immoral about making it part of the political dialogue?" he asked.

School Board Remains Firm On Denial of Segregation

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KANSAS CITY — Sedalia School District 200, through its attorney William F. Brown, stood firm against charges by the Office of Civil Rights, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, that the district was in violation of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, in a five and one-half hour administrative hearing here Thursday.

Claiming that recent supreme Court rulings were working at cross purposes in solving desegregation problems, Brown said in the closing statement for the school district, that the government had accused the district of operating a dual school system, but had not explained exactly what a dual system was.

He added that the Supreme Court had acknowledged in a recent decision that many problems accompanying desegregation could not be adequately solved, noting a racial imbalance occurring in certain schools could not be considered desegregation if discrimination was not employed to either reach or sustain such imbalance.

The HEW's hearing examiner, Thomas J. Pope, San Francisco, allowed both HEW and the school district until July 6 to file written briefs consisting of facts pertaining to the case as well as laws pertaining to the issues involved.

Pope added that copies of the transcript of Thursday's proceedings would be mailed to HEW and the school district in about two weeks.

He said that he would present a review of the hearing, deciding whether the school district was or was not in compliance with Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, hopefully within 30 days from the time he receives briefs from both parties.

Counsel for HEW, Christopher Hagen, suggested to the hearing examiner that the deferral period for a freeze on funds for future educational aid programs, due to expire Saturday, should be extended, until a review of hearing proceedings is completed.

In his closing statement, Hagen reiterated HEW's charge that Hubbard was being operated as a school for Negroes, and that since all federal funds granted to the Sedalia school district were apportioned in part to Hubbard, such funds were "tainted and infected" and should be discontinued.

Hagen added that the operation of Hubbard as a Negro school "flies in the face of Supreme Court precedent," citing two cases in an attempt to back his contention.

Five persons testified in the proceedings, including Sedalia Superintendent of Schools Dr. T. J. Norris, who indicated that beginning next school year Negro teachers would be assigned to elementary schools throughout the school district, breaking a school board policy of assigning teachers to the school of their choice whenever possible. Dr. Norris also testified that the school board had actively sought more Negro teachers for the system for the past five years, but added that only two had decided to work for the school district, despite "concerted efforts" by the district to retain them.

Morning testimony was heard from two long-time Sedalia residents, Clyde Robinson, 123 West Cooper, and Oscar Lawson, 631 North Osage, who related their experiences as students and parents in the Sedalia school district, claiming little or no opportunity to attend school anywhere other than "north of the tracks" had ever been granted by the school board. Brown objected to the bulk of this testimony, charging it was irrelevant and immaterial to HEW's charges of failure to comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The first witness of the afternoon session, Leonard Hamilton, Shaker Heights, Ohio, a civil rights specialist for the Office of Civil Rights, HEW, revealed in testimony that an Oct. 1, 1970, investigation of the school system by a three-member team concluded that Hubbard Elementary School was being operated as a school for Negroes.

Sign 15-Year Treaty

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat ended three days of Cairo talks Thursday by signing a 15-year treaty pledging full military cooperation to help Egypt "stand up to aggression." They also called on Israel to pull out of conquered Arab lands.

The pact, announced in Moscow, was aimed at strengthening Sadat's hand in stalemated peace negotiations with Israel and at firming Cairo's ties with Russia following Sadat's purge of pro-Soviet officials.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the treaty calls for the two nations to "continue to develop cooperation in the military field." It states that the Soviet Union will train Egyptian troops "in mastering the armaments and equipment supplied to the United Arab Republic with a view to strengthening its capacity to eliminate the consequences of aggression."

The 12-article pact does not specifically mention Israel or the United States, both of which came under criticism during the talks by the two presidents.

In a speech Wednesday, Podgorny voiced suspicion about the recent Mideast trip by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Podgorny said, "The Americans will not object to a so-called peaceful settlement so long as it is the kind of settlement which would enable the Americans, through Israel, to impose their will and maintain regimes" they favor in the area.

Sadat also criticized the United States, saying: "Nice words are not by themselves a proof of good will. The whole world knows that the sole support for Israel's continued aggression comes from the United States, thus spoiling all peace efforts."

In addition to the treaty, the two presidents signed a joint communique Thursday demanding that Israel withdraw from all Arab lands seized in the 1967 war.

But the communique also called on Egypt and the other Arab states to acknowledge Israel's existence within "secure and recognized" borders and to end the two decades of hostilities against Israel.

In Eastern Cambodia

Repel Enemy Invasion

SAIGON (AP) — A surge of heavy fighting in eastern Cambodia was reported Thursday and South Vietnamese forces said they repelled a North Vietnamese invasion of the town of Snuol and four attacks in its environs.

A Saigon military spokesman conceded that small pockets of North Vietnamese troops may still be inside Snuol after savage fighting Wednesday and Thursday, but added that the battle for control of the rubber plantation town was ended.

Even as major ground fighting shifted to eastern Cambodia—the heaviest there in three months—U.S. warplanes dealt new air blows to the North Vietnamese just below the demilitarized zone on the Northern frontier of South Vietnam.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces also reported killing 80 enemy troops in four clashes in the northern quarter of South Vietnam on Wednesday. U.S. casualties were not given, but field reports said 5 South Vietnamese troops were killed and 33 wounded in the fighting.

In two raids Thursday, giant B52 Stratofortrs bombed North Vietnamese positions only one mile southeast of the DMZ, hitting at suspected troop concentrations, bunker complexes and anti-aircraft sites.

The target area was close to the spot where B52s scored hits in a raid Tuesday.

South Vietnamese infantrymen, sweeping the area afterward, reported finding 60 dead North Vietnamese and uncovering large amounts of arms and ammunition.

The latest two raids by six B52 bombers unloaded about 180 tons of explosives in an effort to knock out positions from where the North Vietnamese have been shelling U.S. forward bases near the DMZ.

In Saigon the U.S. Command reported in its weekly casualty summary that 38 Americans died in combat last week, the highest figure in three weeks. The number did not include all of the 30 men killed last Friday in three North Vietnamese shelling attacks in the northern sector of South Vietnam.

The command also reported 92

Americans were wounded last week, the lowest figure since early January when 83 were wounded in one week.

The latest casualties raised to 45,183 the number of Americans killed in the Indochina war and the total wounded to 299,434.

South Vietnamese headquarters announced 476 government troops were killed and 1,015 were wounded last week, both sharp increases over the previous week's figures of 280 killed and 812 wounded.

The new casualties brought to 127,567 the number of South Vietnamese reported killed in the war and to 276,616 the total of wounded.

The allies claimed 3,063 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week, raising the war total to 746,349.

'Missile Road' Is Discussed at Hearing continue due north until forming an S-curve, leaving Route T and joining a county road 2.2 miles north of Dresden. The missile site radar installation will be approximately one mile farther north on the proposed road.

Satterlee explained that the hearing was meant to allow area residents to express their views on the road's location.

Using a map of Pettis County and aerial photographs of the area, Satterlee showed where the proposed road will be located, explaining that only basic projections have been made so far.

The highway engineer added that where feasible, existing private entrances, field entrances and other approaches will be connected to the new road. After construction, the state will maintain Route T and the 12-Mile Road District will maintain the county road, he said.

The improvement of the county road will include a 24-foot intermediate type pavement, with eight-foot shoulders to form an over-all roadbed width of 40 feet, Satterlee explained. He said that safety zones about 20 feet wide will be used beyond the shoulders. About the improvement of Route T, he said that an over-all roadbed of 44 feet will be constructed, with additional unpaved space for safety zones.

According to Satterlee, all of the construction will be financed by U. S. Defense Department funds. Instructions to the Missouri Highway Department are to proceed as rapidly as possible with land purchases and road construction, he said.

The Highway Department estimates the project will cost $1,733,000.

A question and answer period lasting about 45 minutes followed Satterlee's opening statements, during which area residents quizzed the highway engineer about effects on particular pieces of property as well as the overall reasoning behind building the new road.

In answering questions, Satterlee revealed that traffic on the proposed thoroughfare is expected to total about 1,700 vehicles per day. He added that Route T presently has about 700 vehicles per day.

One questioner wanted to know why Route T could not be simply improved right on into its present intersection with Highway 50. The highway engineer explained that such a proposal had been considered but was discarded due to problems created by the cemetery near Route T. He noted that there definitely will be an access to the new road into Dresden.

Continue Search

Sheriff's deputies, wearing masks to protect themselves against the stench, continued digging Thursday for bodies along the Feather River near Yuba, Calif.

Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said the search by ten deputies would go on "until we stop finding bodies." To date 15 bodies have been uncovered. (UPI)

Authorities Unearth Three More Bodies

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Three more bodies were unearthed by officers in the orchards north of Yuba City on Thursday, increasing to 15 the number of itinerant farm workers discovered hacked to death with machetes or similar weapons.

The sheriff and coroner confirmed the discovery of the gravesite along the Feather River.

Officers in the area were believed to be looking for still more bodies in the rain. The latest victims appeared to be white males, as were the first 12.

The men had been stabbed and hacked to death with a machete or heavy knife and buried in scattered graves north of Yuba City in Northern California.

Held in Sutter County Jail without bail was Juan V. Corona, 37, a farm labor contractor for 15 years in this lush Northern California growing region. He was charged with 10 of the murders.

Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker reported he was at a loss to give a motive for the murders.

All the victims were white men aged 40 to 63 and all were hacked to death in the back of their heads with a machete or heavy knife. Some also were stabbed in the chest and cut or hacked in the face. All apparently were transients since only one had been reported as a missing person.

The bodies were found in graves 3 to 5 feet deep, most of them scattered along a tree-lined bend in the Feather River. Several, including the 13th, were found in orchards a mile east of the river.

Roy J. Van den Huevel, the Sutter County public defender, took Corona's case after he was formally charged Wednesday afternoon. Later the lawyer said he is convinced Corona is innocent. Arraignment was continued until next Wednesday.

Officers arrested Corona at his $22,000 home in Yuba City early Wednesday without explaining what led them to him. He is a husky man, 5 feet 11, the father of four young daughters. He speaks little English. His family was in seclusion.

Nearly all the graves were found on the 500-acre Jack Sullivan ranch where Corona had worked during harvest seasons as boss of a farm labor camp.

There is no record that Corona ever was convicted of a crime, but he was named in an $800,000 damage suit a year ago brought by Jose Romero Raya. He claimed Corona and his brother, Natividad Corona, severely beat him in Natividad's bar in February 1970.

Judge Richard A. Schoeniz of Marysville awarded Raya $250,000 damages this past February, describing the case as "one of the most vicious to come before this court." Raya said the money has not been paid.

Yuba City, a farming community of 14,000, calls itself America's peach bowl. It is in the Sacramento Valley flatlands 45 miles north of Sacramento and 135 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Mental Health Center Here To Be Closed

(Democrat-Capital Service)

COLUMBIA — Dr. Martin Nieuwenhuizen, superintendent of the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center here, said Wednesday that a lack of money will force the Center to close its traveling mental health clinics in Sedalia and Marshall.

Nieuwenhuizen said two weeks ago that the units might be closed and confirmed the move in an interview with The Democrat-Capital. Affected by the closings will be 238 patients in Sedalia and 106 in Marshall.

Nieuwenhuizen had indicated that the two programs might not be continued unless cuts in Governor Hearnes' $2.5 million budget for the Center were restored. The Missouri Senate recommended a $2,370,000 budget, which Nieuwenhuizen said could not meet future, or even immediate, needs of the Center. The Center had proposed a budget of $3.2 earlier in the year.

Nieuwenhuizen, in an earlier interview said that the Center might have to initiate layoffs if money continued to be tight. "I don't think we have to worry about layoffs any longer because of the number of resignations we have had recently," he said.

Nieuwenhuizen said the present staff at the Center consists of 254 people, with more resignations expected in June. Two weeks ago the staff force stood at 278 and about a year ago the Center employed 322.

Starve State Fair Of Required Funds

The Missouri State Fair looks like it is headed for another mauling at the hands of the General Assembly.

A capital improvements request of $2,806,100 for the State Fairgrounds recently was pared by the Senate to around $50,000. House action is expected to support this general figure.

Thus the State Fair continues to be starved for even minimal maintenance funds, let alone capital improvements, at the very time that attendance is increasing and additional classes and attractions are being added.

When you are talking about capital improvements at the Fairgrounds, $50,000 isn't worth a pitchfork full of manure. As Fair Secretary Wilbert Askew has repeatedly pointed out, he has 123 permanent, aging buildings to maintain on the fairgrounds, and when you divide that into $50,000 you get some idea of the magnitude of the task.

The State Fair has been one of the favorite whipping boys in the General Assembly in recent years, chiefly among legislators who think the Fair spends too much money. Many of these well-meaning men, combined with a few city types who don't know a Guernsey cow from a Brahma bull, apparently would be content to let the Fair go down the drain entirely.

Continued failure to provide the Fair any significant capital improvement funds would be one way of accomplishing this.

Before this happens, concerned Missourians need to remind our state legislators about some of the benefits derived from the State Fair, since many of them seem incapable of perceiving anything except liabilities.

First off they should understand that Missouri is an agricultural state. Farming, when combined with various other agriculture-related businesses, adds up to the single most important factor in the state's economy.

The State Fair supports this vital segment of our economy, and educates many other Missourians, who normally have no exposure to farming, about the state's pre-eminence in the field.

Add to this the promotional, educational, competitive, and just plain fun aspects of the Missouri State Fair, and you have several good reasons for seeing that it continues to enjoy its high reputation.

But all of this will collapse — perhaps literally — if the General Assembly continues to starve the Fair of funds necessary to accomplish maintenance and capital improvements.

Good Boy Scout Makes Bad Agent

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — The little old lady was standing at the street corner nervously waiting to cross when the boy scout came up to her.

"Can I help you across the street, ma'am?" the boy scout said.

"Why, that's very kind of you," the little old lady said, extending her arm.

The boy scout took it, and the two started across the street. Then the little old lady whispered out of the side of her mouth, "I'm Harrigan, FBI. Anything to report?"

The boy scout looked surprised. "I beg your pardon, ma'am?"

The little old lady flashed a card in her pocketbook. "I'm Harrigan, FBI, in charge of the boy scout detail. You seen anything suspicious in the neighborhood?"

"I don't understand," the boy scout said. "Aren't you a little old lady?"

"No, blast it," Harrigan said. "If I were a little old lady, I'd be able to cross the street myself. Now tell me everything you know before someone gets suspicious."

"I can make some very interesting knots, sir. And I believe I have my signal flags down pretty good."

"I'm not interested in that. What's going on in the neighborhood? Have you heard of any priests or nuns conspiring to kidnap Henry Kissinger?"

"I don't know, sir. I'm with the Methodist troop."

"Never mind, and watch where you're going or we're going to get run over by a car."

"I need information. Anyone planning to blow up the underground heating system in the city?" Harrigan asked.

"Not that I know of. My brother said he was going to blow up his school."

"Very good," Harrigan said, taking a pad and pencil out of his pocketbook. "What's his name?"

"Gerard," the boy scout said. "But Mom said not to pay any attention to him. He's 7 years old."

Today's Thoughts

Who through faith conquered kingdoms, enforced justice, received promises, stopped the mouths of lions, quenched raging fire, escaped the edge of the sword, won strength out of weakness, became might in war, put foreign armies to flight. — Hebrews 11:33, 34.

Faith, mighty faith, the promise sees and looks to God alone, laughs at impossibilities, and cries, "It shall be done." — Charles Wesley, clergyman.

Anderson Sponsors College of Ecology

WASHINGTON — America the beautiful, sadly is becoming America the blighted.

Our air, once fresh, is becoming poisoned. The air tides pick up exhaust fumes, factory smoke and other foul substances. As evidence that we breathe the emissions from faraway factories, furnaces and tailpipes, scientists have traced radioactive fallout twice around the globe. When the air hangs heavy over our great cities, it can get so acrid that it acts like eye-stinging tear gas.

Our streams, once sparkling, are becoming polluted. Many rivers and lakes are now open cesspools. The sewage dumped into our water, being rich in nutrients, stimulates the growth of algae. As the algae decomposes, it uses up oxygen and suffocates the fish. Other streams are clogged with industrial waste, oil spills and agriculture runoff. Ohio's oily Cuyahoga River actually caught fire in July, 1969, and firemen had to put out the river.

Even our rain, once pure, is becoming contaminated. The raindrops often form around chemical particles in the air, giving our cities an acid bath. Jet planes, meanwhile, have spewed so much vapor into the atmosphere that some meteorologists believe it has increased the world's rainfall and reducing the sunlight. Since the sun is the source of life, it could be harmful to lower the solar energy reaching the earth.

Increasingly, our lungs are filling with noxious fumes, our drinking water is flavored with chemicals, our bodies are accumulating harmful poisons. Modern man, for example, has up to 100 times more lead in his bones than did primitive man.

The crisis is becoming so critical that we have decided to join the crusade for an environmental clean-up. We have found a small college in a natural wonderland within easy access of the great population centers of the east: Kirkland Hall College near Easton on Maryland's eastern shore.

The trustees have agreed to transform Kirkland Hall, under our direction, into a College of Ecology. We hope to offer the finest instruction available about man and his environment. Many of the classes will be held in the open where nature can be studied first hand. Instead of the conventional sports, students will be taught outdoor survival, boat handling and horse riding.

The college will also open a research center that will investigate pollution, name the polluters and crusade for reforms. Our hope is that it will play a major role in alerting America and goading the government into doing more to clean up the environment.

We invite our 45 million readers, as their part in preserving the fresh air and water they have always taken for granted, to fight pollution in their home communities and to support our College of Ecology.

They're still talking in the Middle East about State Secretary Bill Rogers' peace mission.

My associate Joe Spear reports from the Middle East that Rogers received a friendlier reception in Cairo than in Jerusalem.

Rogers complained privately that the Israeli cabinet was "inflexible." Meeting behind closed doors with key Israeli legislators, he grumped: "The Egyptians have made their policy quite clear. The policy of the Israeli government is unclear."

A legislator suggested tartly that President Nixon might not listen to Rogers' advice. This was a tacit reference to the fact that Nixon sometimes pays more attention to his national security adviser, Henry Kissinger.

Snapped back Rogers: "You are trying to disturb my relationship with the President of the United States. That is unacceptable!"

In contrast, Rogers' visit with Egyptian leaders was both cordial and candid. He established a good personal relationship with President Sadat; the Arabs call it "mukhlis" (sincere).

Rogers' reception was so cordial in Cairo that some diplomats fear the Arabs might expect more from him than he will be able to deliver. This could leave Sadat out on a limb, they fear, and set back Egyptian-American relations more than ever.

But the State Department's man in Cairo, Don Bergus, disagrees with this assessment. "We've been talking cold turkey lately," he told Spear. "They know exactly where we stand and what we're trying to do."

In far off, Anchorage, Alaska, a group of government employees are charging their boss with treating his dogs like people and his people like dogs. The boss hotly — or coldly in view of Anchorage's location — denies it.

The boss, Leroy Davie, is the 60-year-old engineer-in-charge of the Federal Communications Commission's monitoring station in Anchorage. Specifically, his workers complain that he houses a dozen dogs on government property unsanitarily close to the monitoring station, that he has fed them for six years on government time and that he trucks their food around in a government-owned vehicle.

Not only does Davie carry dog food in his government car, it is alleged, but he takes his family on official trips while he is monitoring Alaskan radio stations.

The employees charge Davie also intimidates them by recording their talks with him. Once he sicced local police on an employee on a robbery charge, which later proved false, they say.

At Christmastide, Davie allegedly unleashes "relatives and friends" on government-owned "firewood and Christmas trees."

We chatted amiably with Davie by telephone, and he denied most of the employees' allegations. On housing and feeding the dogs, the Christmas trees and firewood, he had no comment.

The National Association of Government Employees, meanwhile, has begun an investigation.

Democrat Also-Rans Spend Big

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA News Analyst

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For the Democratic party, 1971 is unique. Never before have so many presidential candidates with so little hold on the voters been able to get so much early money for traveling and organizing on an ambitious scale.

Sen. Birch Bayh shows a bare one per cent Democratic support in a national poll, yet he has the biggest political staff of all, travels widely, sends roses and throws champagne breakfasts. He won't say, but he could be spending upwards of $750,000 this year.

Iowa's Sen. Harold Hughes, another member of the one per cent club, doesn't travel as often as young Mr. Roller Skates from Indiana. But he does get about, and he's enlarging his political operation.

Hawkish Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington isn't taken too seriously as a prospect, except maybe in the South and in limited northern quarters. That doesn't seem to prevent him from moving around constantly. He has had five visits cross-continent to California. The senator is riding on a fat two per cent poll showing.

With his five per cent and his declared candidacy, Sen. George McGovern is a little more plausible. It's still remarkable, though, that he can find the money to fuel his very high-paced 1971 effort.

Now, it doesn't violate objectivity to say most of these men are bound to be losers in 1972. Indeed, most won't get very far at all. So, how come some Democratic money types are financing a bunch of losers in such high style?

A high proportion of these angels can be found among New York and California liberals. They want candidates with a strong commitment against the Vietnam War. They want men who will knock wire-tapping and call, every hour on the hour, for the firing of J. Edgar Hoover.

McGovern gets those who like his "I was first against the war." He also runs daily against J. Edgar. The fat cats who want the deep voice look to Harold Hughes, who has the organ tones, the big chest measurements for a commanding presidential figure, and a little of the whiff of a believable dark horse about him.

As the junior dragon who slew the Supreme Court nomination of southerners G. Harold Carswell and Clement Haynsworth, Birch Bayh of Indiana makes it with people who are grateful or who like his gymnasium energy.

Given the free-wheeling nature of the Democratic party, it is wholly predictable that the restless Left should be casting about for someone other than either Old Face Hubert Humphrey or Old Face's 1968 running mate, Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine.

And, certainly, at least one of the low percentile candidates is going to be backed all the way into the Democratic convention next July. The vigorous Left is never without a horse.

Nevertheless, the party faces the serious question whether liberals' financial indulgence in the present variety of choices is not a luxury which Democrats challenging President Nixon in 1972 can ill afford.

Everybody has heard by now that it is going to cost an individual candidate at least $10 million to $12 million to campaign full-scale up through the nominating convention. To get the nominee to voting day in November may take two or three times that much.

The money wells being tapped today are not ever-flowing. Some of them could run dry next year just when the Democrats need them most. And with the party still necktied by a $9.3 million debt from 1968, its credit wouldn't buy lunchtime hamburgers for a campaign staff.

The Democrats' long spring-training roster of candidates surely support reformers' hopes for open-party competition. Trouble is, it's so open the money is running out at both ends. The unprecedented outlays for losers by fat cats in fantasyland are simply unbelievable.

Our old friend Z played in the continent-wide charity game. He didn't do too well and blames the result on the computer, but he did confound the panel with today's hand. They analyzed that most South players would land in a spade partial and make two or three.

Z went to four spades after his old partner Y raised him to two and proceeded to make his contract.

East won the first trick with the king of clubs and shifted to the five of diamonds. Z played low and West was in with the nine. He returned the deuce. Z won with the ace and played his king of hearts. East took that and led the suit back.

The defense had three tricks in, but Z was now ready to operate on them. He ruffed a diamond with the five of trumps, led the jack and let it ride after East ducked. Dummy's 10 of trumps held the next trick but Z got to his hand by ruffing a heart, cashed ace and king of trumps to pull East's last tooth.

After that it was a simple matter to finesse against West's queen of clubs for the last two tricks.

"Wonderful," remarked A, who had been watching. "You wouldn't have made it against me."

"No," replied Z. "You would have led a second club early in the play. I could take the finesse but would be unable to cash the ace of clubs without East ruffing and spoiling my diamond discard."

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Florence Lockwood

WINDSOR — Mrs. Florence Lockwood, 86, died Wednesday afternoon at the Rest Haven Nursing Home here following a lengthy illness.

She was born Nov. 1, 1884 in Lewis Station, Mo., daughter of the late Amatas and Ann Eads Michaels. She was married to Walter N. Lockwood Oct. 17, 1908. He preceded her in death in June 1959.

Mrs. Lockwood had lived in the Windsor area most of her life and was a member of the Christian Church here.

She is survived by one nephew, Bill Walters, Clinton.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at the Houston-Hadley Funeral Home with the Rev. Melvin M. Hill officiating.

Burial will be in Laurel Oak Cemetery, Windsor.

Ernest J. Brunkhorst

BLACKBURN — Ernest J. Brunkhorst, 71, died Thursday morning at Research Hospital, Kansas City.

He was born Feb. 9, 1901, at Alma, Mo., son of Henry and Anna Martin Brunkhorst.

He was a member of the Blackburn American Legion, the Zion Lutheran Church at Blackburn; the church men's club and was Sunday School superintendent.

Survivors include one son, Albert E. Brunkhorst, Conoga Park, Calif.; two brothers, Paul Brunkhorst, Sedalia; Walter Brunkhorst, Alma; two sisters, Mrs. L. C. Eckhoff, Concordia; Mrs. Bernice Fanganman, Emma.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the church with the Rev. Lambert J. Mehl officiating.

Burial will be in the Blackburn Cemetery.

The family will receive friends from 7 to 9 p.m. Friday at the Miller Funeral Home here.

Futures Advance

Up To Four Cents

CHICAGO (AP) — Wheat, corn and soybeans future advanced from 2 to 4 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday on buying stimulated largely by the weather.

Oats also closed on a fairly strong tone.

Soybeans came under early selling pressure, largely as profit-taking from the previous session. However, once the selling need had been satisfied new buying entered the pit. This was influenced mostly by the weather.

At the close, soybeans were 2 to 4 cents a bushel higher, July 3.11%; wheat was 2 1/2 to 3/4% higher, July 1.57%; corn was 3/4 to 2 cents higher, July 1.49; and oats were unchanged to 1/4 higher, July 71%.

Announce Plans For Walk-Out

A nation-wide strike by the United Telegraph Workers, AFL-CIO, scheduled for 12:01 a.m. Monday by some 17,000 Western Union workers, will show no effect in Sedalia until at least Tuesday, according to Mrs. Mary Ilo, office manager.

A union spokesman in Washington said the walk-out appears unavoidable. "I don't see any chance of getting it settled," according to union president E. L. Hageman, who said the union is demanding a two year contract including 16 percent in wage hikes each year. The workers now average $3.47 per hour, he said. The current contract expires at midnight Sunday.

Mrs. Ilo told The Democrat-Capital that the strike would affect two employees locally. She said the last strike to affect local operations occurred in 1968 and was resolved after a brief period. "The last long strike that affected the telegraph company was in 1952," she said.

Hageman reported little progress in the negotiations so far. "The company hasn't offered us a penny for wage increases," Hageman said.

Knob Noster School Gets Federal Funds

(Democrat-Capital Service)

KNOB NOSTER — R-VIII School here will receive $450,299 in impacted aid funds from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, it was reported Thursday.

The payment is similar to one scheduled for Sedalia School District 200, but the amount is considerably higher. Sedalia is to receive $11,386, it was reported.

The HEW allocations, designed to off-set the impact of demands on school system as a result of personnel attached to government installations, are usually higher in areas closer to such federal facilities.

Knob Noster is only a short distance away from Whiteman AFB and its Minuteman Missile installations.

Recital Scheduled

A public recital by the piano students of Mrs. Francis Gunn, Ottumwa, will be presented at 3 p.m. June 6 at the Ottumwa Baptist Church.

Nursing Scholarships

Neil Chapman, left, member of the scholarship committee and treasurer of the board of trustees at Bothwell Hospital, presented $1,000 scholarships Tuesday to Mrs. Harold Lane, left, 1614 West 18th; Mrs. David Kirby, seated, 714 East 11th; and Mrs. James Holden, right, 662 East 10th. Mrs. Holden and Mrs. Kirby will attend Lincoln University, Jefferson City, and Mrs. Lane will attend Kansas City General Hospital School of Nursing. All are licensed practical nurses employed at Bothwell Hospital. The scholarships will aid them in furthering their education as registered professional nurses.

'S' Club Banquet Is Unique

A new flair was given the 46th annual Smith-Cotton High School "S" Club spring banquet Wednesday night at the S-C cafeteria when outstanding seniors and their departments were honored with a special program.

Presenting the seniors and their achievements was Craig Sharp, graduating senior and new member of the "S" Club. The accomplishments of instrumental and vocal music, drama, speech and debate, basketball, baseball, track, football, industrial arts and art were highlighted, and the newly chosen outstanding "S" Club seniors were recognized.

Projects from each department were displayed, including sports and trophies earned, art work, and a handcarved grandfather clock case from the industrial art department.

The program was concluded by Miss Pat Worley, outstanding senior in vocal music, who sang "You'll Never Walk Alone." She was accompanied by Miss Beth Belt.

Skip Schulz, president, commended the 69 new seniors on their service to the school and requested their presence at future "S" Club banquets.

The executive committee recommended an increase in dues from $1 to $2 per person, and the club passed the recommendation, which will become effective this fall.

Mrs. Lucy Welch was in charge of the decorations and Mrs. Mary Kay Hunter was program chairman.

Problems Undermine Protection

WASHINGTON (AP) — An advisory committee of university scientists said Thursday the Food and Drug Administration is beset by serious scientific problems that undermine effective consumer protection.

"There is no doubt that the agency is currently burdened with managerial and communication problems which are longstanding and widespread," the five-man panel concluded after a one-year investigation of the FDA. The study was commissioned by the agency's chief, Dr. Charles C. Edwards.

The panel's report focused on the FDA's scientific activities, rather than enforcement and legal functions.

Road Work Results

In Closing Street

R. W. Cunningham, city engineer, said Wednesday that Sue Lane south of 11th Street will be closed to traffic for several days for installation of a new sewer culvert.

"After completion of the Sue Lane project, Herald Avenue will be closed for the installation of a culvert," Cunningham said. He said one or the other of the streets will be kept open during construction because they are the only access routes to the DeJarnette addition.

Circuit Court

Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Co., Chicago, Ill., filed a motion in Pettis County Circuit Court to dismiss an insurance suit totaling $2,337.50 brought against it by Smithton School District R-VI.

In its petition the school system claimed that the five IBM typewriters having a total value of $1,625 and the $500 mimeograph machine taken in a May 28, 1970, burglary at the school were among the property insured with the company. The school system claims that the company refused to make good the insurance claims on the stolen property.

The school system has asked that the company pay $2,125 for the stolen property and $212.50 for the "vexatious delay" in settling the insurance claim.

The company filed the petition to dismiss the case on the grounds that the school "fails to state a claim upon which relief can be granted" and that it "fails to state a cause of action" against the company.

Had Wrong Name

It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Sedalia Democrat and Thursday's Sedalia Capital that Mrs. William Eschbacher is chairman of the city drive of the Pettis County Cancer Society.

Mrs. James Eschbacher is the chairman.

File Injunction

Against Local Firm

JEFFERSON CITY — A permanent injunction against Kim Originals, Inc., 2500 East Broadway, Sedalia, barring the firm from violating the Fair Labor Standards Act, was on file in U. S. District Court here Wednesday.

Named in the injunction were Bill Cline Jr., president of the firm, and Harry Cline, vice-president. Both agreed to the injunction, the U. S. Department of Labor said. The order bars future violation of the minimum wage, overtime pay and record-keeping provisions of the law.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION OF NOTICE

The State of Missouri to the above-named and described defendants:

You and each of you are hereby notified that a petition has been filed against you in the Circuit Court of Missouri, Eighteenth Judicial Circuit (Pettis County), Sedalia, Missouri by Elliott M. Stafford, Jr., the sole Successor Trustee of the Trust established under the will of May H. Ilgenfrie, deceased, the object and general nature of which is to change the method of administering said Trust to (1) broaden the scope of the beneficiaries heretofore followed by the Trustee in granting scholarships for "higher education"; (2) allow outright health care grants to crippled children and indigent patients at the John H. Bothwell Memorial Hospital and any similar institution located in Sedalia, and to allow outright donations of appliances and equipment for such patients to such hospitals (3) allow the Trustee to distribute in lump sum the amount of $1,000 to the Sedalia Cemetery Association Fund in the Sedalia City Treasury, for administration by the governing board of such Association in maintaining the family monument in Crownhill Cemetery, in full satisfaction of the reference in Settlor's Will regarding maintenance of said monument; (4) to give the Trustee the administrative authority required in order to avoid prohibitive taxes and penalties imposed by the Tax Reform Act of 1968; (5) to accept the resignation of the petitioner as Trustee and to approve his account of the administration of the Trust assets to date of January 1, 1971 to the date of filing the same (at or before the hearing) and in particular to approve his accumulation and reinvestment of income during the entire period of his administration, to appoint his successor (s) and upon delivery of the Trust assets to such Successor Trustee (s) against proper receipt therefor, to fully and finally discharge petitioner for all purposes and to discharge petitioner and his surety on petitioner's bond filed herein; and (6) to allow reimbursement from the Trust of Trustee's fees, legal fees and expenses of the interested parties.

The names and addresses of all the parties to said action are stated above (to the extent known to petitioner) and the names and addresses of the attorneys for petitioner are Lamm, Barnett, Crawford, Barnes & Fritz, 118 West Fifth Street, Sedalia, Missouri 63801 and Hills, Brewer & Myers, Fifth Floor, Commerce Tower, P. O. Box 1267, Kansas City, Missouri 64109.

You and each of you are further notified that unless you file an answer or other pleading or shall otherwise appear and defend against the aforesaid petition within forty-five (45) days after the first publication hereof on the 29th day of May, 1971, judgment by default will be rendered against you.

IT IS ORDERED that a copy hereof be published according to law in Sedalia Democrat, a newspaper of general circulation published in the County of Pettis, State of Missouri, at Sedalia.

A true copy from the record.

Witness my hand and seal of the Circuit Court of Missouri, Eighteenth Judicial Circuit, at Sedalia, Missouri, this 25th day of May, 1971.
